THE EXPOSITION.

The Grand Inaugural Demonstration Yesterday.

A Review of the Great Enterprise—The Enthusiasm of the People—A Great Street Pageant—The Military and Citizens in Line—Magnificent Display of Our Industrial Interests.

The Formal Inaugural Ceremonies—Congratulatory Addresses from Distinguished Speakers—The Press Gang Cordially Received—A Ramble Through the Interior of the Building—The List of Articles—A Brilliant Prospect—The Enterprise a Splendid Success.

The Industrial Exposition, of which so much has been written, and concerning which so much interest is felt in our community, was duly inaugurated yesterday in a manner befitting the magnitude of the enterprise. The people seemed to be fully aroused to the importance of the occasion, and the way in which they attested their enthusiasm was in accord with the general character of a people who never do things by halves, and who act upon the principle that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well. The manner in which the day was signalized, as well as an idea of what the Exposition is, and the prospects for its brilliant success, may be gathered from the record which follows—a concentration of the facts gleaned by our representatives.

THE EXPOSITION PROJECT.

It may be proper, as a fitting preface to the record of the day's proceedings, to recall some of the salient points connected with the incipiency of the Exposition, and the progress which has thus far been made toward what promises to be a success even beyond most sanguine expectations. It is not necessary to refer in detail to the many efforts made at occasional intervals extending through the past decade of years or more, to awaken enthusiasm in the matter. It will be sufficient to say that, although it was generally conceded that our great beehive of industry ought to be represented in such a project, yet public interest could not be concentrated sufficiently to give any solid basis for the enterprise. All the former attempts, therefore, were failures. The Exposition now being held is, in a sense, the outgrowth of these other and different efforts to accomplish the same result. The efforts previously made had turned on the idea of mass meetings, and of securing success by means of popular demonstrations. These had, one after another, proven failures. The idea was then formed of organizing in a manner that would admit of consecutive, continuous work, irrespective of popular feeling. To this end, about a year after the last failure at a mass meeting, a charter was prepared under that phase of the Wallace act, which provides for corporations without profits. The purpose was to organize a Board of Directors, and then quietly work, not seeking popular recognition, till the proper time arrived. The charter was carefully prepared, and its merits having been considered, it was determined to launch the movement. It was submitted to the legal consideration of Major A. M. Brown, and after careful revision, as it passed from his hands, was officially endorsed by the Legislature. Its peculiar features are the offering to the general public the entire control of the institution, that public taking life memberships at one hundred dollars each, or annual membership at five dollars each. Those life memberships entitle the holders to admission to expositions during their life, or the continuance of the expositions, and also to a vote in the election of a Board of Directors once in the year, the annual elections occurring in the month of November. The annual membership—which will probably be discontinued after the present year—entitle the holders also to a vote at the elections, and to admission to the Exposition during the particular year in which they hold their memberships. The charter aimed at two objects. First, the holding of an annual Exposition to exhibit our industries, and second the establishment of an Industrial School—to be sustained by the profits from the Expositions, in which instruction would be given free to all who desired to learn the theory of technical arts. The charter was passed at a public meeting held in Germania Hall, Pittsburgh, during the month of November, 1874,—a meeting of about fifty gentlemen, presided over by Thomas S. Mitchell, and of which J. Vannote was Secretary. An impartial committee of five was selected by open nominations of the gentlemen present to nominate a Board of Directors. They returned and reported the following names: Thomas S. Mitchell, Jared M. Brush, J. Vannote, James B. Lyon, Henry Lloyd, A. J. Nellis, Joshua Rhodes, R. E. Breed, and W. G. Johnston. At a subsequent meeting the number of Directors was increased to thirteen, at which number it stands at present—the additional names being Thomas M. Carnegie, Hartley Howard, Jacob H. Walter and A. M. Brown. Subsequently Messrs. Brush, Carnegie and Howard resigned, and their places were supplied by the election of Messrs. Columbus Coleman, James M. Johnson, and R. M. Gilleland. The Board, therefore, as it stands at present, consists of the following gentlemen:

A. J. Nellis, President.
Thos. S. Mitchell, Vice President.
Columbus Coleman, Treasurer.
J. Vannote, Recording Secretary.
James M. Johnson, Corresponding Secretary.

James B. Lyon,	Henry Lloyd,
Joshua Rhodes,	R. E. Breed,
W. G. Johnston,	J. H. Walter,
A. M. Brown,	R. M. Gilleland.

This charter was properly passed upon by the Court, and is recorded in the office of the Recorder of the Courts. Under this charter, Henry M. Lloyd was elected President; J. Vannote, Secretary, and Fred. A. Parke, General Manager. The immediate policy adopted, was that of procuring life-membership, which work was commenced at once, and prosecuted with energy for some three months, resulting in subscriptions amounting to about ten thousand dollars. The Directors finding that the idea of soliciting subscriptions was ineffectual took a new tack, and adopted a plan of making a Guarantee Fund. Under the provisions of this plan, about a half dozen public spirited gentlemen, who had full faith in the success of the enterprise, and were willing to endorse it pecuniarly, legally pledged themselves to contribute various sums, amounting in the aggregate to $50,000. This ensured the success of the undertaking, so far as the preliminary installments of money were required, and the work from that time went forward with as little delay as possible.

The attention of the Board was then directed to locating the Exposition building, and the policy adopted was, to receive proposals from all parties having property considered suitable for that purpose. A serious difficulty met with at the outset was the securing of a site sufficiently large to meet the probable future growth of the institution, it being found that there were few properties in the city applicable for the purpose. The first immediate movement was to apply to the Park Commissioners of Allegheny for a plot of ground two thousand by seven hundred feet, opposite the Penitentiary, and a committee of three was appointed to negotiate. That committee consisted of J. Vannote, Thos. S. Mitchell and A. J. Nellis. The Park Commissioners, having taken the subject into consideration, decided that they had no legal power to grant the use of any of the Park land in Allegheny for that purpose, the Parks being held only for the purposes for which they were originally designed. Of the proposals received under the general application of the Board for proposals one came from the owner of the Hamilton Hall property, Mr. Peoples, offering the Hamilton Hall property one year free of rent, subject to a purchase by the Exposition management, at the end of that year, at a fixed price. Another offer was made by Mrs. Denny, of the property known as Snyder's Square, between Pittsburgh proper and Lawrenceville, at a rental of about five thousand dollars a year; also a property in Allegheny, known as the Union Skating Park, at a rental ranging from $3,500 to $6,500, depending upon the amount of property taken. There was also an offer on the part of the Schenley agents, of property of theirs in the Twelfth ward, at a rental of about four thousand dollars a year; also by the Schenley agents, of a property near Oakland, at three hundred dollars an acre. There was an informal offer of the Fifth Avenue Market House and adjoining property. These constitute the offers that were made.

The Denny and Schenley offers were all rejected—save that of Union Skating Park—because of the difficulty in disposing of tenants, the unavailability of the ground, and the prices asked. The offer of the Fifth Avenue Market House was rejected because it was too small; that of the Schenleys at Oakland, because of its unavailibility, it being too far out of the city. This narrowed the question down to Union Skating Park and Hamilton Hall. A vote was taken in a full board on these two properties, and Hamilton Hall was accepted by a vote of seven for the hall, to a vote of six for Union Skating Park.

Immediately on the selection of Hamilton Hall property becoming known, a violent clamor was raised, partly by the life members, largely by persons who were not as yet connected with the institution in any form, the objections urged being that the property was located too far out of town, and that it was in bad order, and that it would not contribute materially to the welfare of Pittsburgh to hold an Exposition at that point. The subject was brought before the Board in a public meeting of all interested, and it was finally determined to bring the matter to a second consideration. This was done, and at this second meeting the vote accepting Hamilton Hall was reconsidered. The Skating Park in Allegheny was then the only prominent site before the Board. The same general disadvantages were urged against it as against Hamilton Hall—that it was too far removed from the center of business. It was also thought that the rental was entirely too high. At this juncture, an informal proposition was made by members of Allegheny Councils to grant the use of Smoky Island for the site. Mr. W. C. Cooke was the first, we believe, to talk about this site, and chiefly through his instrumentality the matter was brought before Councils,—he being a member of the Committee on City Property. The result was that Smoky Island was accepted, and a lease obtained from the City of Allegheny granting the use of that property for fifteen years without charge.

The Building Contract.

The next movement was the arrangement of plans for the building and for the securement of the contract. E. M. Butz, of Allegheny, prepared plans, and proposals were invited, the first bids received ranging from $80,000 to $140,000. These were all rejected. Various efforts were made to substitute other plans, but eventually the original Butz plan, reduced in ornamentation and lessened a trifle in size, was resubmitted to bidders, and the contract finally let to Frazier Brothers, at $49,750, they being under bonds to complete the building by the 5th of October. When the question of signing the contract came up there was much hesitancy in the Board of Directors. Mr. Lloyd resigned his position. Mr. A. J. Nellis being elected President of the Board, and the entire work of signing the contract and carrying forward all matters pertaining to the Exposition being committed absolutely to the Executive Committee, consisting of Thomas S. Mitchell, Chairman; J. Vannote, Secretary; A. J. Nellis, Columbus Coleman and James Johnston. The contract was signed, and the work of erecting the building actively entered into. The contract for the work was let about fifty days ago.

During all this period of preliminary labor there was scarcely a show of sympathy towards the enterprise outside of the Board, the whole matter being looked upon as a predestined failure. Nevertheless the Committee labored constantly and resolutely, with the positive purpose of bringing the affair safely and successfully through, if it were possible. Within about three weeks, however, public interest began to be manifested, it being aroused in part by the evident certainty of success, and partly by the circumstance that exhibitors from other sections distant from Pittsburgh were intending to come in and compete for the trade of our city by showing their goods and discovering to the people that they, at least, were possessed of a spirit of enterprise. At last our people were aroused, and during the last two weeks have manifested a most earnest interest in the way of exhibiting their goods, so that the building will be thoroughly crowded, and another equally large space might have been filled had it been known in time how large the demand would be.

The construction of the building, and the preparation for the Exposition, have been carried forward so rapidly as to prove an astonishment to our steady-going people, who very largely predicted that preparations could not possibly be made in time to hold this Exposition at the time fixed for the opening. Yet preparations are fully as forward as at any first Exposition ever held in this country.

Prospective.

So much for the past, and now a word as to the anticipations indulged by the managers, and their future plans. While future plans have not as yet been fully matured, the views entertained by the Executive Committee and Board of Managers look to the opening of a more elaborate exposition about the middle of July next, to continue nearly or quite as long as the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. The object of this is not to compete against, or in any way seek even to limit the success of the Centennial,—as we know it will not have that effect,—but to afford inducements to those who come from Europe to visit the Centennial to visit the City of Pittsburgh as well, and see in a compact space the products of our various forms of manufacture. The theory of the management is that we will have a vast number of visitors, both from Europe, and from the West, Northwest and Southwest of this country. It has been the experience of all who have visited the European Exposition that after having seen the main attractions they have gone through the country to witness the minor attractions, and it is presumable that the same spirit will govern European visitors to this country. We therefore think that after having gone through the Centennial Exposition, and taking in its attractions, one of the most interesting points to them will be the City of Pittsburgh, and that having come here, rather than go the round of over forty miles of mills they may visit a few leading attraction of that character, and then study our productions through the medium of our Exposition.

It is further known that the Pennsylvania Railroad expects to carry from the West, Southwest and Northwest, two millions of people to the Centennial Exposition. It is the direct line to the Exposition, and will therefore probably have the bulk of the passenger travel. Arrangements have already been partially consummated with the Pennsylvania Railroad whereby all those passing this city on their way to the Centennial, or on their return, will be allowed the privilege, without extra expense, of stopping off at our Exposition; and it is the belief of the management that at least one million of the two millions carried will be induced to visit the Exposition in this city. Therefore it is proposed to open our Exposition about the middle of July, and continue it so long as it shall seem wise to do so. Such is the history of the enterprise thus far, and the hopes entertained for the future.

It was but natural that an enterprise of such magnitude, and from which so much benefit was to accrue to the general community, should at last arouse public enthusiasm. When this interest was awakened, although there were but a few days for preparations the work went forward and the first expression of the feelings of the people was given in which was the opening feature of yesterday's exercises Happily for this part of the demonstration the weather proved favorable and the prediction made by Old Prob through our columns, yesterday morning, was fully realized. The opening hours of the morning were not as auspicious as could have been desired, and it appeared as if the sun was struggling with a storm cloud for victory. The result was favorable to the luminary, and there was clear sunshine long before the column formed. The atmosphere was somewhat chilly, but as the morning wore on it became more temperate, and at the hour fixed for the march the meteorological influences in all respects were as favorable as could have been desired for a street parade.

The various delegations commenced to form shortly after nine o'clock, but it was not until about eleven o'clock, that the line was in order, and the 'Forward' command given. The column moved in the following order:

Military.

Major General Pearson and staff, of the Sixth Division
General Joe Browne, commanding Fourth Brigade and staff.
Great Western Brass Band.
Col. Gray and staff.
Fourteenth Regiment, over two hundred men.
Knapp's Battery, commanded by Lieut. Canham.
Duquesne Greys' Drum Corps.
Duquesne Greys' Regiment, about one hundred and forty men.
Eighteenth Regiment, with Arbogast's new band in their new uniforms.
Dr. Jackson, mounted on a noble charger.
Col. E. C. Negley and staff, commanding Third Brigade.
Large's Jefferson Cavalry.
Staley's Band.
Nineteenth Regiment—Col. Stewart and aids.
Hutchison (old Hampton) Battery.

Civic Procession.

Chief Marshal.—Col Thos. M. Bayne; white sash, blue border.
A. A. General—Col. J. S. Haymaker.
Aids—Hon. H. M. Long, Harry Darlington, Capt. J. T. Stockdale, Alex. Patterson, Major W. G. McCandless, Dr. W. S. Huselton, J. M. Shaffer, Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, Fred. Lang, Adam Weaver, H. Anderson, Hon. Miles S. Humphreys, Thomas Burchfield, Nicholas Voegtly, William Heagy, J. Mc. Creighton, General J. H. Fitzhugh, James McBrier, Walton Woolsey, Hon. Hugh McNeil, Captain John Gilfillan, B. B. Coursin, John Megraw, D. L. Fleming. The aids wore white sashes with rosettes.
Allegheny Delegation, consisting of carriages containing City Officers, Councilmen, &c.
Members of the Press in carriages.
Brass Band.
Horseshoers' and Blacksmiths' Association on horseback, about 150 men.
Citizens on horseback.
Citizens in carriages.
Then came the "Trades," represented as follows:

FIRST DIVISION.

Jenkins Bros.' bell team—very conspicuous and attractive.
Horseshoers' and Blacksmiths' Association on horseback, headed by St. Bridget's Band, in a wagon.
Then came the turnout from the Fort Pitt Boiler Works of D. W. C. Carroll & Co., which was a marked feature of the procession. It was a large locomotive tubular steam boiler, with smoke stack and dome complete, mounted on a large truck, and drawn by six stalwart horses, driven by John Cool, the celebrated teamster. Passing over our avenues, it attracted no little attention. Following came the lighter wagons of the firm, loaded with sections of smoke-stacks and articles attached. Altogether the turn out made by the Fort Pitt was creditable to the enterprising proprietors. The Fort Pitt Works will be largely represented at the Exposition.
Wilson, Snyder & Co., brass founders, steam pump on wagon.
M. Saller, clothing, one wagon.
Trimble's Varieties, wagon.
Kramer & Vogleson, confectioners, three wagons.
Abdiel, McClure & Co., "Pride of Kitchen Soap," one wagon.
J. M. Hartford, wholesale auctioneer, wagon with big shoe set on box, boy ringing bell.
Spencer, McKay & Co., Phœnix brewery, one grain wagon and seven ale wagons filled with kegs, wagons decorated with flags.
J. C. Buffum & Co., five wagons ladened with mineral water bottles and boxes.
S. V. Albee, photograph wagon.
Z. Wainwright & Co., one ale wagon.
Union Broom Company, wagon load of brooms.
Brown, Colburn & Co., Cresfield oysters, four decorated wagons.
A Bradley & Co., wagon, with four men in act of making moulds; also, 2 wagon-loads of workmen.
Gangwisch & Straub, four-horse wagon laden with painted beer kegs and carrying a large flag.
Chautauqua Lake Ice Company, 9 beautifully decorated white wagons, with evergreens and flags, one containing a pyramid of ice.
W. C. Dodds & Co., tea wagon.
Singer Sewing machine, two decorated wagons.
South Side Herald, two devils and others in a wagon working a card printing press.
Dollar store, one wagon.
Elias Howe Sewing Machine, 12 wagons with machines. In first, representation of old man and woman. In others four ladies working sewing machines.
Remington Sewing Machine, 2 wagons.
Pickering, carpet weaver, 1 wagon.
Fogle's bakery, 1 wagon.
Matchett & Co., paper box, 1 wagon.
S. Hamilton, 2 organs in wagon.
Marshall & Kennedy, 6 flour wagons.
S. Ewart & Co., wagon load of hardware, tea canisters, wagon load of boys.
Fahnestock White Lead Co., two wagons.
Mellor & Hoene, 2 wagons, one with large pipe organ.
Cavitt & Pollock, miniature oil tanks in wagon.
Barnes' safes, 1 wagon with safe, drawn by six horses.
Temperance Agitator (newspaper), four-horse wagon, with band of music and wagon decorated with several temperance mottoes.
Armor's glass shade, wagon.
H. A. Jones, carpet weaver, wagon.
D. M. Jenkins, five wagons loaded with teas and carrying Chinese banners, Chinaman "Joe Chee-oo" on front seat.
James H. Loh & Co., big sea oysters, three wagons—first one new and very handsome; an elegant display.
Stoy's auction sales, 1 wagon with banner.
McCallin & Bros., wagon.
Dickson, McKallip & Co., printers, 1 wagon.
Dilworth Bro.'s, coffee, 4 large wagons with boxes.
Iron City Spice Mills, 1 wagon.
Western Pennsylvania Paper Box manufactory, 1 wagon with 8 feet paper box.
Scobie, Reed & Smith, dog churn in wagon.
Evans' department store, 1 wagon.
J. P. Smith, Son & Co., lamp chimneys, 1 wagon.
John T. Gray, painter, 1 wagon.
Elliptic Sewing Machine, three pony team drawing sewing machine wagon, with machine operated by a man.
E. Edmundson & Sons, wagon load upholstering furniture.
Pittsburgh Wire works, one wagon load of wire workings.
Wm. H. Sheib, pianos on wagon.
Fleming, Agnew & Co., 1 wagon.

SECOND DIVISION.

Ph. Holdeman, upholstery goods in wagon, with gong and numerous flags, and 8 men.
Oehmler's star-gold-paint wagon, with figure of boy surmounted by gold paint; also man and boy with golden suits, boy tooting a golden horn.
Myers' steam ice-cream wagon, decorated with flags.
R. Jennings & Co., veterinary surgeons, buggy with transparency.
Hackman & Co., "Rising Sun" baking powder, 2-horse wagon.
E. C. Fralich, axle grease, wagon decorated with signs and 1 lot boys (assorted.)
Eberhardt & Ober's Eagle brewery, wagon decorated with evergreens and transparency; followed by 5 wagons laden with beer kegs.
Joseph W. Schofield, confectionery one wagon.
A. Speer & Sons, Pittsburgh Globe Plow Works, handsome nickle-plated plow. The plow took the first prize at the Paris Exposition in 1867. Plow stands on platform covered with velvet on wagon.
Lyle, Burchfield & McLane, wagon set off very uniquely with carriage hardware, etc.
Myler Brothers' Eagle flour mills, four-horse wagon.
C. Matter & Co., furniture wagon decorated with greens.
E. Maginn, five cracker wagons decorated with flags.
Baymer, Bauman & Co., white lead wagon containing pyramid of kegs.
Murdock, Covode & Co., groceries, wagon decorated with small flags.
W. J. Meek, wagon with Sturtevant furnace blower.
Pittsburgh Folding Chair Company.
J. McClurg & Co., unrivalled crackers, Allegheny.
Bushfield Bros., grocers.
Kearn's superior pies.
Ward's bread.
Darziger's gents furnishing goods, and S. Cohen's overcoats, same wagon.
Elliptic Sewing Machine Co.
Voigt, Mahood & Co., produce, team.
Keystone Planing Mills, Reed Bros.
P. B. & E. C. Mau, bagging.
Campbell, Jones & Co., lime and glassware.
Heinz & Noble, vegetables.
Shields House Auction Sale Stables, with mule in wagon.
Marvin's cracker wagon.
Soft Soap wagon, owner unknown.
And a number of others, impossible to enumerate.

The Display

surpassed even the most sanguine expectations. The time was so short, and the rain of Wednesday had such a dampening effect that it was thought the turnout might not be as large as was desirable, but the result proved otherwise. The pageant was one of the largest ever known in the city, and careful estimates put it down at three miles in length. In variety of character, too, it was much better than was anticipated. The marching of the military was universally complimented, and the "citizen soldiery" never made a better impression. A prominent manufacturer, who saw the Cincinnati display, in response to an inquiry as to what he thought of it, said

"I think it was a much better display than Cincinnati. There was more variety in it, and it more nearly represented our industrial interests. It was fully as long, I should judge, considering the time it has taken to pass in front of us."

The column moved over the route prescribed, as follows: Starting from the corner of Smithfield and Water streets, it moved along Smithfield street; thence to third avenue, Third avenue to Grant street, Grant to Fifth avenue, Market and Sixth streets to Suspension bridge and across to Federal street, up Federal to North avenue, along North avenue to Irwin avenue, thence to Ridge avenue, then to Exposition building by way of South avenue.

The carriages containing the visiting members of the press and the Press Reception Committee, which dropped into the procession immediately behind the Councilmen, fell out of line at the corner of Federal and Ohio streets, and going down the latter thoroughfare they got ahead of the procession. The carriages drew up in line along the curb, near the foot of Allegheny avenue, where a fine opportunity was presented to the visiting newspaper men of viewing the procession. They were profuse in their praises.

Thousands of spectators were gathered along the line of march from the beginning to the end, and the frequent cheers, waving of handkerchiefs and other demonstrations of approval testified to the enthusiasm of the spectators. It was thought at first that the route was rather extended and might be cut down, but when the procession began to unwind itself the leaders saw that it must have room to turn and so the full route was gone over. In many places along the line the houses were decorated with flags and streamers. When the military arrived on South avenue they were reviewed in front of the Exposition building, and then passed on homewards. The different delegations also, after passing in front of the building, took up their several ways and in a couple of hours the streets were clear of all but the pedestrians, who were wending their way toward the Exposition building. The pageant was unattended with any unseemly disorder, and everything passed off in harmony and good feeling. It had been arranged that would take place at the Building about noon, but when the time came, the procession had not yet passed, and a postponement was necessitated, as the people could not be got together. Meanwhile during the interview a messenger was sent for the Great Western Band, which had gone off with the military. After a long and tedious wait the crowd began to gather in front of the central entrance, and a large number succeeded in crowding their way into the interior. The balcony just above the entrance had been fixed upon as the platform from which the speeches were to be made. From this balcony, looking up and down the avenue, as far as the eye could reach on either side, there seemed to be almost one solid mass of people, while directly in front they were wedged in so as to occupy every available inch of space. The yards attached to the houses in the vicinity also contained their full complement of people, while Monument Hill was taken as a point of observation by a large number who desired to take in a bird's eye view of the whole panorama.

About one o'clock—the procession having nearly all passed—the meeting was called to order by the Secretary, Mr. J. Vannote, who briefly stated that it had been found impossible to get the Exposition into ship-shape for opening that day, but that it would be thrown open on Saturday. It was proposed, however, to go on with the original programme in so far as the inaugural ceremonies were arranged, and in pursuance of that plan he called upon Rev. Dr. S. J. Wilson, of Pittsburgh, to open the proceedings with prayer.

The reverend gentleman delivered a brief but very impressive invocation.

Prof. Wm. Mason Evans, the popular elocutionist, was then introduced and read the following

Dedicatory Ode.

I.

Treading on equal step beyond their prime,
Apace they grow—the century, the year!
Their soundless footfall nears the realm of Time,
Bringing us now, with falling leaf, the autumn sere.

II.

Lo! within view of these trivergent streams,
What mystic changes hath the century wrought!
See! Where the westering sun sheds his last beams
Athwart yon hill, what things the fading year hath wrought.

III.

On yonder point Trent his rude stockade built,
And made first foothold 'mid a wild domain,
Where Gaul and Briton wrestled hilt to hilt,
And christened with their blood historic Fort Duquesne.

IV.

These cultured hills, this many peopled plain,
Re-echoed the fierce cries of conflict red;
The brave frontiersman's rifle cracked amain,
Hurled the tomahawk, the deadly arrow sped.

V.

Monongahela! thou the story tell
Of bloody battle near thee lost and won;
Tell of the fatal field where Braddock fell,
Tell the aspiring deeds of youthful Washington.

VI.

Apace they grow—the century, the year!
The forests green have melted in the haze;
Wild sounds of strife no more appal the ear—
Two cities, vast and peace-crowned, burst upon the gaze.

VII.

Myriads of structures fill the teeming space,
The abodes of wealth, the homes of hardy toil;
Steeple and stack and dome contend for place
'Midst clanging bell and whistle shrill of man's turmoil.

VIII.

Unwilling Earth, from out her bowels yields
Her Hidden treasures, wrest by sinewy hand;
Vulcan begrimed his countless hammers wields,
His strepent strikes echo grandly through the land!

IX.

The discontented spirit of the Mine,
Poising on sable wing that clouds the sky,
Or hovers 'round his destiny condign,
Exorcised by weird Fire and magic Industry.

X.

Hail, Might of Muscle, Breadth of Brain, all hail!
Joint Genii ye, who stir the Active Age!
Your offspring here disclose the wondrous tale
Of what ye've done to blaze o'er History's page.

XI.

For Janus' gates are shut; Minerva now
And the attendant arts, this temple fill;
Marble and canvass, anvil, loom and plough,
Send vieing vot'ries from studio, farm and mill.

XII.

Here are thy triumphs, meek and lovely peace!
Oh! shed from outspread wing thy blessings pure,
O'er this fair land, and may thy reign not cease
Long as these rivers roll, and while these hills endure.

Address of Mr. Dravo.

Hon. John F. Dravo was then introduced, and spoke, in substance, as follows: "My friends, when I hear the bustle and noise in the rear of this stand, and look out upon the vast crowd of people before me, I could wish that I was a fog horn, that I might be able to make you all hear the few words I have to say concerning this great enterprise. At last, after years of unsuccessful effort, we see that our city and community, the great Commonwealth of industry, science and art, has been aroused from center to circumference, and the people seem to be aroused as they have never been before, in regard to an enterprise from which so much is to accrue for the benefit of the community. Who ever would have dreamed that, outside of politics, such an interest could have been awakened in any project, or such a vast crowd collected here to-day? Surely such a demonstration as we have witnessed—such an outpouring of the people—is one of the great triumphs of the day. I say none of us would have dreamed of it, and it shows that the great thought of the people of this industrial community is at last turned in the right direction—toward efforts for a fuller development of the great capacities we possess. I am rejoiced to see this spirit awakened. These Industrial Expositions are the milestones that mark the world's progress. They are the waymarks of civilization. The stone relics found in Indian mounds of our country indicate the civilization of those earlier years. I thought as I passed through this great building to-day and saw the specimens of our arts and manufactures—all illustrative of our progress and advancement—that if by some freak of nature this whole building and all its contents could be petrified, and all the long line of the products of Pittsburgh industries, as here displayed, be thus preserved and hidden away, and some future Darwin hunting for his ancestors should discover it, what a wonderful chapter in the world's history would he reveal. What a great link in the world's progress he would develop. So I say this grand Exposition building stands to-day as a monument to mark an important era in our history as a community. As a citizen of Pittsburgh, therefore, I cannot but rejoice at the success which has crowned this vast enterprise. It deserves to be supported by the people, now that it has been made for them. I trust that the people will feel thus and that they will turn out from day to day, lending the influence of their presence and the power of their approval to this great awakening, and to this increased interest in our grand industries. We ought to take an interest in those things, and so when the Centennial comes next year, we may look for and enjoy that grand revival of labor, when the sound of the anvil will be heard resounding in every workshop, and every loom will be in motion, and every business house will be alive with business,—all testifying that the spirit of labor has returned to bless and give prosperity to our great nation.

Hon. J. C. Newmyer's Remarks.

Mr. Vannote said that Hon. James H. Hopkins had been assigned to make a few remarks but he had been detained and could not be present. He had the pleasure of next introducing the Hon. John C. Newmeyer. The gentleman said, "My friend, who has just closed, said he was sorry that there was so much noise as he could not make you hear what he had to say. Now, I am glad there is this noise, and I wish they would keep it up as I didn't expect to be called upon to make a speech and I havn't much to say. I am glad, however, that I can congratulate you upon the opening of this Exposition. It marks a new era in the history of Pittsburgh. And when I say the City of Pittsburgh I do not mean to ignore that large municipality on the North Side,—the great City of Allegheny. But in the term Pittsburgh, I include the 'great State of Allegheny county.' For I look upon them in this matter of our industrial interests as all one, for they are so closely identified that practically they are one. Pittsburgh, then, let me say, has received the title of the Manchester of America, and I think she well deserves this title. She has acquired this distinction, not through any shoddy display on her part, but by steady perseverance. Her business men have been content to go slowly, and to build up a secure foundation. For this reason she has, by reason of this safe, conservative spirit, been accused of being "slow," but if she has been slow she has certainly been sure. The time has come, however, when she should no longer hide her light under a bushel. It is time she should show up her workshops, her mills, and her great storehouses, and take her place among the great industrial communities of the world. This spirit seems to have been awakened at last. In accordance with it she now opens her first great Exposition. This marks a new era in her history, and it is a significant proof of her enterprise that the exposition project has gone forward under the circumstances attending it. When there is a temporary depression of business all over the country, caused by one of those waves of commercial distress which cannot be understood, Pittsburgh carries forward her great industrial enterprise, to such a brilliant conclusion. Does this not speak volumes in proof of her enterprise? To me it seems a grand proof of it, and I am proud of it as well as of the magnificent pageant which passed through our streets to-day, and gave a faint index of our prosperity. This is why I rejoice to see the completion of this Exposition project, and congratulate you upon its success"

The Great Western Band played a patriotic medley, in which Yankee Doodle was conspicuous feature.

Hon. Henry Rawle's Congratulations.

Hon. Henry Rawle was then introduced as "the Mayor of Erie, and a gentleman of whom possibly you may have heard in other connections." Mr. Rawle's speech was a brief one. He said, "My friends I am happy to meet with you day on an occasion like this, but I have no speech to give you. I came here as an onlooker, and did'nt expect to be called upon to make a speech. I am not a speech-maker. I am neither a preacher or a lawyer, and so am not prepared to express my views of this demonstration and this Exposition as I would like to do. I may say, however, that it is pleasant for me to see such an interest manifested in such an important enterprise as this. Especially, is this display appropriate in such a city as Pittsburgh, which is celebrated for its advancement in industrial pursuits. I rejoice, therefore, with you at your success, and hope that the Exposition may yet prove successful beyond your highest hopes. I am glad to be with you to-day, and thank you for your courtesy."

The State Superintendent's Views.

Hon. J. P. Wickersham was next called upon. He said: "I arrived in your city last evening. When I came it was no part of my purpose to make a speech on this occasion. I supposed all your arrangements had been made, and I was greatly surprised when I picked up the paper this morning to find my name included among those of the speakers. As I said, I came here not to do any speech-making, but to see what Pittsburgh could do in the way of an Industrial Exposition. I had attended the Expositions at Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, and other Western cities, and I was anxious to see what the mechanics, the farmers, the merchants, and the manufacturers of Pittsburgh could do in making an Exposition. I am more than gratified at what I have seen this day. I am especially gratified at this grand display, because I understand it is proposed to establish, in connection with this enterprise in the future, an Industrial School, where the sons of our mechanics and farmers and manufacturers may gain a knowledge of the mechanic arts. I am in full sympathy with such an enterprise. I am anxious for the day to come when our glorious public school system shall be supplemented by an Industrial School where the boys and girls may be trained to work. As I have looked at this procession to-day, and observed the enthusiasm manifested among all classes, I have thought that the people meant to make this enterprise a success, and that they are in full sympathy with the idea of the gentlemen who have erected this building—who propose to supplement it in the years to come with an Industrial School. For this reason I hope that your Exposition may be a grand success, and if you give it your cordial support you can make it the grandest exposition held in the Ohio or Mississippi valleys.

I like these Industrial Expositions. They do a vast amount of good. Those who bring their goods here to exhibit, go away again better business men than when they came. They have learned something by putting their goods alongside their neighbors. Then as an advertisement it has paid them. A shrewd business man always advertises. He makes use of the columns of newpaper, and he advertises also in every other legitimate way. His business is to bring his goods before the people. This is a grand advertisement. It will bring more money to this city than all the expenses of the Exposition this season.

But beside this matter of profit, I like these expositions in another way. An exposition like this is a great school for the capitalist and workingman. Here each may learn his relative rights and duties. This is a good place to settle the antagonism—an antagonism that is unnatural—between capital and labor. All such antagonism must be done away with in such a place. Right here is the place to solve the problem between capital and labor. Here they may meet, and the commingling brings them into fraternal unity.

I like this Exposition also, particularly for that idea of the establishment of an industrial school, where our sons and daughters may be taught the industrial arts. We have too many young women now-a-days who are brought up to do nothing. We have too many young men who are seeking agencies and clerkships and offices, and too few who learn to work—or learn industrious habits or trades. One of the great needs of the times is to train young people to work. Why, if there is a vacancy in a clerkship at Harrisburg, for instance, at a salary of $1,400 a year, let the fact be known and you will have a hundred, yes five hundred applications for the place. And so it is with any office, even though it may pay but a few hundreds. Now if our young men were taught to work, were apprenticed to trades, they would not be running around hunting office, or seeking light employment. They would take right hold and would seek that employment in which they could make proper use of their skill and industry. So I say I rejoice at the success of this enterprise. I hope it is but the dawn of a new era for your industrious community, and that from it may spring an awakened interest in all those industries, the pursuit of which benefits and blesses the race."

The Great Western Band then played "Marching through Georgia."

Words of Explanation.

Mr. Vannote then said that in closing the exercises a word of explanation and a word of thanks were necessary. The management were just as anxious to admit the people, as the latter were to be admitted. They had not desired to admit the audience until the latter could get value received. He invited the people to come on Saturday when he assured them that every arrangement would be complete at that time. He thanked the audience in conclusion for their presence here and for having participated so largely in the procession. The thanks of the Committee were also tendered the speakers.

The audience then dispersed.

Reception of the Press.

Immediately after the speaking on the balcony was concluded, the members of the Press Reception Committee and the visiting members of the fraternity repaired to the Press Headquarters, on the first floor, west of the entrance. The room is large, well and tastefully fitted up, and contains every convenience for writing and reporting, even to the Western Union Telegraph. It has been handsomely decorated with evergreens and flowers by Messrs. J. R. & A. Murdoch.

The meeting was organized by calling Mr. T. W. Davis, of the Y Wasg, to the chair, and the appointment of Messrs. John N. Neeb, T. P. Houston and Capt. Wilson Carr as Secretaries.

The introductions were made by President Nellis, of the Board of Directors. Mr. S. Quinon, of the Christian Advocate, then made a brief, but neat speech of welcome, which was responded to by Col. Chill Hazzard, of the Monongahela Republican.

At this point the Great Western Band came into headquarters and treated those present with some of their choicest music.

Short speeches were then made by Chairman Mitchell, President Nellis, Secretary Vannote, Rev. Wm. Dallas, Dana L. Hubbard, of the Wheeling Evening Standard, Hon. John F. Dravo, Col. Foulk, and others, embracing on one side cordial welcome and on the other hearty appreciation.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. Fred. Walther, was then adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the press of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and of the visiting press, extend their heartfelt thanks to the Board of Managers of the Tradesmen's Industrial Institute of Pittsburgh and Allegheny for the attention paid them and the accommodations given them to transact their business.

Mr. Keating offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, extending to the managers of the Exposition an invitation to attend all the press excursions, and take with them their wives.

Messrs. Keating and Weeks then announced the programme for to-day's excursion, which is as follows: The train will leave the Union Depot at 8:10 A. M. this morning (Allegheny Valley Railroad), and first visit the steel works of Hussey, Wells & Co. At Forty-third street the party will cross the bridge and visit Graff, Bennett & Co.'s mill, to see the Danks process of puddling by machinery, after which the works of the Keystone Bridge Company will be visited. The Water Works foundation and the Vesta Oil Works will next be visited, when the party will return to the city. Here they will take the Pennsylvania Road, a lunch car, well provided by Col. Unger, of the Union Depot Hotel, having been attached, and the Edgar Thomson Steel Works will be seen. From here the party will cross to the Connellsville road, and will visit the National Tube Works, of McKeesport, the sheet iron mill of W. D. Wood & Co., the copper work at Soho, &c., and return reaching the city shortly before five o'clock this evening.

Dispatches were read from the New York Tribune, Chicago Tribune, Chicago Inter-Ocean, and Memphis Avalanche, announcing that their representatives would be present last evening.

During the meeting a basket of boquets was handed around to the visiting members. The informal reception was continued for a short time, and the meeting then adjourned, to assemble again at the Union Depot this morning.

The reception of the Press closed the formal proceedings, and the journalists and privileged visitors were free to follow their inclinations. A representative of the GAZETTE improved the occasion to take a saunter through the building, and in the course of the ramble, gathered a clearer idea of the magnitude of the enterprise.

THE INTERIOR.

Standing yesterday afternoon at one end of the long galleries which stretch along both sides of the main building, a spectator was enabled to form a fair idea of how magnificent the display will be when the vast amount of goods and articles of almost every conceivable character, which were pouring in at every entrance, are arranged and placed in order in their appropriate places. Our reporter looked down on a scene of unusual bustle and activity. Hundreds of men were hurrying hither and thither, each one intent upon the accomplishment of some purpose, while as many more visitors were wandering aimlessly about inspecting and examining such things as fastened their attention. The building resounded with the noise of scores of busy hammers, wielded by mechanics straining every nerve to put the finishing touches to the interior of the vast structure, and conclude the fashioning of the many booths which will soon be gorgeous with their elegant and beautiful decorations. An hour's tour of the building enabled the writer to see how order is gradually growing out of chaos, and to foresee the eminent degree of success which the Exposition is destined to attain when all the arrangements are complete. Like the undeveloped rose bud, giving promise of the flower to spring into full blown beauty under the influence of the sun, so can one who makes use of his eyes see that a delightful and charming picture is gradually forming under the hands of the men employed in the numerous departments.

Under the guidance of Mr. Towells, Chairman of the Committee on Space, our reporter traversed the first floor and galleries and herewith presents the most noticeable of the many features pointed out to him. Entering the building from the main entrance, near Press Headquarters, the first thing which attracts attention is the extent of the floral department, which is almost complete, save a little softening of rough edges and a degree more of regularity. It is located directly in the centre of the building, and surrounds a fountain, to which additional attractiveness is yet to be lent before it commences playing.

Beauty and Elegance.

A number of Pittsburgh florists adjoin here, and as each is endeavoring to surpass the other in originality of design and magnificence of arrangement, the reader can easily conceive how charmingly beautiful this department will be, and what a magnet it will prove, particularly to the ladies. We neglected to state that the fountain is quite a [illegible] one, occupying a square sixteen feet in width each way, and that two thousand feet of space will be taken up in the display of flowers alone. A miniature greenhouse, complete in all its appointments, is also on exhibition. At the west end of the floral department is a handsome Italian marble statue, mounted upon a pedestal of Quincy granite, and at the other end is a red Scotch granite obelisk, neatly and prettily proportioned and polished. These are the chief things of interest in the middle aisle, and also of most general interest, because every body loves flowers and statuary. A Chinese pagoda, which is yet unfinished but which the carpenters are industriously pegging away at, will be something new and unique, and therefore the possessor of charms which the curious visitors will be disposed to investigate.

Investigating the Show.

Come with the writer now to the western extremity of the building and take a walk with him to the other end. Perhaps the close of the tour may result in a pretty fair idea of what the thing will look like when finished. Well, the first thing that invites attention is the stove department. It is not yet all occupied, because it is pretty extensive, running to Press Headquarters, but the number of stoves on hand is sufficiently large and diverse in style to demand the critical inspection of the housekeeper who is on the alert for anything of that sort which will serve in drawing the culinary art nearer perfection. The display comprises not only cooking stoves, but stoves of every other kind, such as are used in offices and parlors, as well as grates of every improved pattern. The department of gas fixtures is immediately adjoining, and a few feet distant are the appliances of the plumbers art. The show of articles used in fitting a dwelling for water is quite pretty. Next on the southern side of the building is the department of manufactured iron, one hundred and fifty feet by forty feet, in which scales, plows, etc., are exhibited. The space to be devoted to a showing of pianos, organs, etc., by our city dealers in musical instruments, is on either side of the center aisle and is sufficiently ample for them to make a display highly creditable. Following on down the southern side we next come to places for toilet articles and soda fountains. A number of very handsome specimens of the latter are already located, but they are to be outshone by one yet to be placed in position and which is to cost $5,000, a sum almost sufficient to build a neat and comfortable brick dwelling. In regular order come the departments of queensware, saddlery and harness goods, organs and pianos again, a fine exhibition of crackers arranged on shelves built in a pyramidal form, and which look very inviting and toothsome, and lastly on the southern side the vehicle department, which is one of the most complete in the entire building. The carriages, buggies, barouches, cabs, phætons, hearses, etc., comprised in it are some of them of exquisite finish, and a combination of lightness and strength.

Agricultural.

We have now reached the western end, which is filled from side to side with the implements of the farmer's avocation, and embracing nearly everything used in agriculture, such as mowers, reapers, drillers, scythes, plows, cradles, etc. From here half way along the northern side of the building until the main entrance is reached the floor is occupied by the departments allotted to exhibitors of iron and wooden pumps, burglar proof safes, job printer's materials and specimens, articles of wire work, shafting and plates, manufactured wood, fancy wood and iron manufactured goods, and confectionery. In the display of candies two or three firms have united, and when they have put the articles in order their show will be very pretty. We have now gone entirely over the first floor and noted every exhibition of importance upon it, though, as a matter of course, quite a number of lesser displays escaped the writer's notice or have been omitted. In a day or two neatness will have usurped the place of untidiness, and the visitors of yesterday will then find the picture complete and a fit subject for hours of study and admiration.

Along the Galleries.

Let us now go up stairs and walk along the galleries, which are destined to be the favorite resort of the ladies, while the leading attractions for the men will be on "the ground floor." Starting from the dining room, which is situated in the southwest corner, and which is two hundred feet long and one hundred feet wide, we come to a young fellow industriously working away at a carpet weaving machine. The unflagging energy with which he plies his trade, and the ease and dexterity with which he throws the smooth, steel pointed shuttle from side to side, draws a crowd of curious and interested witnesses. The children interest themselves in a vain endeavor to find out the principle on which the bobbin works, and why the weaver so vigorously manipulates the machinery under foot. They give it up as something incomprehensible, though understanding that it is necessary to the completion of the work in hand, and we pass on to the departments which are to be occupied by our sewing machine agencies. They will make a fine show and will compete earnestly for the chief prize. Adjoining them is a display of patent tubs, wringers and washing machines, also fancy leather of divers pretty colors, stained glass, wholesale drug department, sponges, trunks and jewelry. The exhibition of the latter is large and very fine. The same can also be said of the drug department. Indeed both are stores, complete in themselves and wanting in nothing. The stock is valuable and will need careful watching from thieves. We have now reached the art gallery, but as it is yet in an embryo state nothing can be said of it except that when the pictures are hung it will be an exquisitely charming place to visit, and will give our guests a fair idea of how much real genius and talent Pittsburgh artists possess.

Something for the Ladies.

On each side of the gallery, at the western end, is a series of rooms, and they are being fitted up in a way that will make them the attraction, par excellence, for the lady visitors. They comprise a parlor, sitting room, bed room, dining room and kitchen, and the appointment of each department is complete. They will be papered by the paper-hanger, carpeted by the carpet dealer, furnished by the furniture dealer, the grates and stoves will be put in by the manufacturer of such articles, the gas fitter will add his adornments, the glazier will put in the windows, the cup-

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 117.

THE jury in the SINEY case is understood to stand eight to four for acquittal. This is the case Senator WALLACE, the leader of the Democratic party in this State, prosecuted.

TUESDAY next will end the canvass in Ohio. To our friends in that State, we have to say, vote for HAYES, and persuade your friends to do the same. Never be over-confident, whatever reasons for confidence you may have. Work hard, and vote right, and all will be well.

TWEED seems likely to be brought to trial in November, his bail being kept at the original standard,—a rather ominous indication to him. It looks very greatly as though he would suffer yet the full penalty originally marked out for him. He is held in prison because of his inability to obtain bail. The fact is very significant, as pointing out that Tweed's power is broken, and his punishment sure, in the event of the proof being sufficiently distinct to convict him.

THE war on Sherman's Memoirs does not seem to be ended. The war records are being searched for data touching many points included in his book. Just how strongly the records will conflict with the General's statements, we do not pretend to say. The War Department records are made up of reports from many sources, some of them conflicting with others, and all of them being of a character to fully sustain Sherman, others being flat against him. His Memoirs do not, in all particulars, pretend to be accurate histories of events, but merely his memory touching them.

THE Internal Revenue Department makes a very gratifying report touching the receipts from liquor sources—the inference being that the whisky seizures have largely benefited the Government in its current income. It is proposed to break up all illicit distilleries that can be discovered, in order that the full revenue may be secured. The prosecution of distilleries will be rigid and vigorous, and will, it is thought, result in the collection of large sums, out of which the Government has been defrauded. So the movements of Secretary Bristow have been of great value thus far, and promise to be still more beneficial.

WE ARE reliably informed that the gentleman we referred to in an editorial of ours, a few days since, as having been compelled to resign from the Democratic ticket because of drunkenness and abuse of family, was not compelled to resign, but did so from purely personal reasons. The several charges against him, including those noted, were fully investigated, and his innocence established, before he thought of resigning. Having established his innocence, he of his own motion resigned. We cheerfully make this correction, as we have no desire to knowingly misrepresent a person of the opposite political faith. We really think the gentleman who withdrew was of the better element on the ticket.

THE Post seeks to ridicule the idea that he contraction of the people's debt, by enforced payment, will harm them. This is in exact accord with the spirit of the Erie platform. The National banks hold about $140,000,000 of paper, representing debts owing them by the people. To contract these debts means their payment by the people,—and this has in it only one result,—widespread ruin. Yet the Erie platform demands the abolition of the National banks, and the substitution of State banks. To say that it is merely proposed to have these banks without issue, is mere absurdity. Once leave it to States to legislate as to their banks, and they will do exactly as they please, and the old State wild-cat system would soon be in full force. The general Government has never yet presumed to absolutely prohibit States from chartering banks,—it has merely limited the advantages of such institutions. So the wiping out of National banks means the liquidation of their business; and this involves the calling in of debts. Thus the Erie platform proposes to contract by forced collections.

THE Post, every now and then becomes inspired over the Catholic question, and declares there is nothing in it. Yet it will not deny that the Catholics, in this community are earnestly striving to elect PATTERSON, and that there is an overplus of Catholics on the Democratic county ticket. All else aside, the regular Catholic journals are fully alive to this question. The Catholic Advocate, of Louisville, says upon the subject: "It is by no means necessary that Catholics should be in a majority in a community, to obtain a division of the school fund. It is only necessary that they should allow politicians to divide amongst themselves, as their own ambition and pecuniary interests will always divide them, and then cast the weight of the Catholic vote in favor of every good man who is to support the Catholic claim for justice. In this way a comparative small band of voters may elect to office men of their own principles." Certainly this utterance of a prominent church journal is susceptible of but one interpretation, and that it represents fairly the policy of the Church is indicated in the following declaration by the Freeman's Journal, of New York: "Hands off! No State taxation or donation for any schools. You look to your children and we will look to ours. We don't want to be taxed for Protestant or for Godless schools! Let the Public School system go to where it came from—the Devil." To pretend that the opinions here expressed and the policy thus indicated are cherished only by a few mad dreamers is simply an absurdity. They represent a fact which is gradually assuming overshadowing importance in this country, and which will sooner or later demand the close attention of the American people. It is, therefore, wise to attend to it now wherever it manifests itself, and we are called upon, in this county to carefully note it.

THE canvass this year, seems likely to be characterized by several curious features. The Democracy are apparently stunned, and are making few and feeble efforts, so far as public meetings, or vigorous editorials are concerned. It is believed that they are extremely dissatisfied with their candidates, now that their record is so fully shown up. It was a serious mistake to attempt in advance to guard the public against bringing in the war issues, and then offering two candidates undeniably tinged with copperheadism. It had the appearance of begging the question in advance. It is possible they did not fully scan their records in advance, although the flaming articles, heralding their nomination, would indicate that they nominated them because they were copperheads. On the other hand the temperance candidates are palpably losing strength,—the people being in process of enlightenment as to that particular subject. The Republican party has aroused wonderfully, and efforts have been successfully made to infuse it with its old spirit. An element of moral advantage is the assured success of the Republican ticket in Ohio. We fully believe that in any event HARTRANFT and RAWLE will be elected; but if Ohio elects HAYES by 20,000 majority, HARTRANFT will have a greater majority in November. So with our county ticket. There are no indications unfavorable to its success, while all the outlook is entirely favorable to it. We have no reason to doubt, from the energy manifested, that our local ticket will be entirely successful. While appearances are thus favorable, it should be borne in mind that we have secured the vantage ground we have by solid, vigorous, constant work. We should continue and increase this to the end, and all will be well.

THE PROCESSION YESTERDAY.

The splendid military and civic display yesterday attested two facts,—that our people can be roused to earnest enthusiasm; and that they are equal to great demands, when thus aroused. Both the military and civic displays were impromptu affairs,—the military having but little more than a week's notice, and the civic arrangements being but a few days in making. The commanding officers of the military, and the Grand Marshal and Aids in the civic department, deserve unstinted praise for the highly successful manner in which they performed their duties. Nor can too much praise be awarded the people generally, for their interest. It was all that could be asked, and attested, most satisfactorily, the interest felt among the people in an enterprise in which they can properly take pride, and which is promotive of their interest. Our local columns fully describe the procession, which was one of the best ever held in the city. It is a gratifying omen of future success, when the Exposition shall be fully opened.

The exercises at the building were witnessed by a vast concourse of people, still further attesting the interest felt in the enterprise. The speeches delivered, and the attention manifested, were all that could be asked, thus really constituting the inaugural a grand success. The actual opening of the building to visitors was very properly delayed, the management not desiring to receive money till they feel that they are giving a full equivalent. Cincinnati opened, in its earlier years, when no better prepared than are we, but it was felt that there should be no movement which could give any dissatisfaction. When the opening is made, it will be a revelation of splendor and utility that will cause admiration and pleasure. So the affair is made to conform to principles of exact justice, and none will have occasion to regret the decisions made, as when fully prepared it will realize the highest expectations, and afford agreeable experiences to all. Saturday will be as early as all this can be realized.

As to the Exposition itself, it cannot fail to prove a benefit to Pittsburgh, such as will be felt for many years. It has already largely advertised our revival of enterprise and activity,—in itself a great benefit to every home interest. It has illustrated, already, that we can have, even amid the pressure of hard times, as complete and successful expositions, as are held in other cities, even in good times. It attests that if times improve, we can, in another year, have an Exposition that will rival those that have had the growth of years in other cities. It will also attract surrounding population, and afford an idea to those immediately around us, of the extent, and variety of our manufactures. Thus, in stimulating business activity, arousing interest in our home manufactures, and attracting to us attention from abroad, we will experience large benefit from our incipient Exposition. In six months from this the benefit will be fully appreciated, and fully acknowledged. Thus it stands, at its inception, an acknowledged benefit.

The time has come when Pittsburgh should fully resort to the methods employed elsewhere to attract attention and stimulate trade. There can be no doubt that the unusual activity of other cities has militated against us. Several forms of trade, peculiar to us, have been drawn away, and, to outside observers, the indications are that this will continue unless checked. It is known that our manufactures are of the best, and amongst the cheapest. But other points have gained popular attention and caught the public eye. There is no reason why they should excel us, except the fact that they employed Expositions as advertising facilities. We have now successfully started on the same road. If we are not benefited, it will be anomalous. We will realize the benefit, and cannot fail of finally profiting very largely, by the Exposition. it comes intending to shed blessings only, and we hope it may fulfill the mission for which it is designed.

THE SUNCOOK TRAGEDY.

The Discovery of the Remains.

The following detailed account is given of the discovery of the remains of the murdered girl at Suncook, Massachusetts: Shortly after 8 o'clock, Mr. Copp, one of the party, came upon her headless body in an undergrowth of birch, about eight rods from the road, and a mile from home. The father was the third or fourth man to see it, and as his eyes fell upon the sickening sight he exclaimed, "Oh, my God!" and threw himself beside the corpse, alternately kneeling beside it and embracing it. The ground and leaves for quite a space were completly saturated with blood, as was the butt of the tree. The clothing of the girl was torn into shreds. Three bones of the right hand were broken, as if the hand had been struck when vainly attempting to ward off a blow. The head was cut off cleanly, as if by a large sharp knife. The spinal column was severed between the first and second vertebræ. It was the unanimous opinion of the physicians that decapitation was performed, or begun, before the girl was dead, because of the profuse evidence of her having bled freely. The body was otherwise brutally mutilated. The body was taken home by the neighbors and placed in the same position as when found, the right leg doubled under the left, the right arm laid across the breast, the left one under the body. At dawn search was begun by a large party for the missing head, books and waterproof cloak. About 8 o'clock Horace Ayer found the head, partly rolled up in the waterproof, about seventy-five rods northwest of where the body was found, in the same piece of woods. It was partially uncovered, resting on the waterproof, which was carefully thrown over it, but not quite concealing it. There was a wound on each side several inches long, and a cut on the top; on the right cheek there was a well defined imprint of a boot heel of medium size. There was also a cut on her cheek, just in front of the left ear, that was probably made by some sharp instrument. A few minutes later the books were found, and near by a heavy oak stick, considerably stained with blood.

NO REAL friend of temperance in this State can afford to throw away his vote for any third party candidates, who stand a far better chance of being struck by lightning in the middle of Winter than they do of being elected.

RAILROAD POWER.

Some Reflections by an Old Merchant.

[From the Norfolk County (Mass.) Gazette.]

While traveling in the old stage coach about the time the Eastern Railroad was in contemplation, in 1830–35, the conversation sprang up upon that subject. There were present one judge, two attorneys, three legislators, the editor of the Essex Register, and one or more merchants.

The arguments for railroads were—we shall have living materials at half prices, business carried on at less expense, and we shall enjoy a paradise.

On the other side, land will be worth nothing; horses won't sell for five dollars, nor oats be worth six cents per bushel; and our men will become loafers around the taverns. By past experience it proves these arguments were futile, and how short-sighted the vision and the judgment of man, when selfishness causes him to fix his affections upon some perishing object he is not now in possession of.

The public deem railroads to be indispensable for life, accompanied with its despotic power and oppressive spirit, being so enamored with the present life which we do not desire to exchange for a more enduring life, free from sin, pain and sorrow. The power which controls the passenger, mail and freight transportation, perverted by a selfish and arbitrary spirit, is the most despotic and oppressive of any other power, and can control your laws and your government. It is a power that can dictate to a Legislature and to a city; unless you accede to our demands we will divert the trade from your city; and this, indirectly, has been done.

Ostensibly, charters for corporations are granted to be subserviant for the good of the body politic. Having obtained the privi'ege, at the outset the officials are laboriously, painfully civil and amiable, ready to be your humble servants. The corporations having prospered and accumulated means, the external demeanor is changed, the tune is altered. At the outset, the railroads exist for the people; now the people are subservient to the railroads.

As a merchant, the writer has experienced both. The stockholders have no more power than a non-holder; they must be contented with the usual dividends, even if there is a million accumulated over the expenses. This is a reserved fund to extend branches and build lateral roads, that we can enlarge our business; that we can join gigantic corporations, and become consolidated so as to bring the Government and the people subservient to our ambitious aspirations.

Who controls? We answer, the directors and inside officials; and in how many cases do we find such become suddenly affluent; within a short period owning tracts of land or estates on the lines of these branches and laterals, long before the public knew of any such project. We could relate many facts of this kind which have transpired in the West.

Previous to the present panic, railroad agents were ransacking Europe to gather all the spare capital to build railroads that would not be needed within the next century to come. It is well known railroad corporations were the pioneers of this terrific panic which may not find its resting place for two or three years to come. We are now bound with silver chains which we do not feel, which may be exchanged for iron, unless we break from the present ones.

Our remarks are more the result of what has been observed in the Middle and Western States than of New England, where there is left more of the relics of true Democracy, a respect for law, and the good of the whole than in other parts of our nation. There is still extant here a jealousy of the rights of a people, but it is fast fading away. Your Legislatures still are upon the alert to guard against the abuses of power by railroads and saving banks; yet some of the railroads step out, of course.

The edict that man shall earn his bread by the sweat of his brow is a truth that if not noticed, the evils will surely follow, and we have no better evidence of it than the present state of society. The railroads and labor saving machines are two great secondary causes to deprive man of his natural rights, to be contented and happy.

Aug., 1875. AN OBSERVER.

MIND-READING.

A Competitive Contest Out West.

Brown, the mind-reader, whom Eastern regions have almost forgotton, has had a campaign out West, and the other day he had a competitive contest with Mrs. Bleik Peters, in Davenport, Iowa, in her own parlors. The lady is of middle age, and, says a Western reporter, the daughter of a high official in the court circle of Davenport," which must be a fine thing. Brown's method, it is well known, is to place the hand of the mind he means to read on his forehead, and go like a streak of lightning to any hidden article. Mrs. Peters needs to have the ends of the fingers placed on the region of the lunar plexus, immediately between the eyes, in order to do the same thing. The separate experiments, which were successful in each case, were not so interesting as the joint test. Both the lady and the young man left the room, while a piece of flagroot was put under a champagne glass reversed on a plate and covered with a napkin. It was resolved that Brown should remove the napkin, Mrs. Peters lift the glass, Brown take the flagroot and Mrs. Peters the plate. Recalled to the room, the two joined hands, the operator took a hand of Brown, placed his fingers on the brow of Mrs. Peters, and, simultaneously, without a moment's hesitation, the two advanced and carried out the programme to the letter. After this, they were placed one at each end of the long drawing room, an alphabet hanging on a wire before each. A person in the middle of the room opened a Bible at random, fixed his thought on a name, meanwhile holding a copper wire connecting with Brown, and extending his other hand toward Mrs. Peters. Immediately, as if moved by machinery, the two mind-readers began to spell the word on their alphabets, striking each letter at the same moment. These tests, we are told, were continued for some time without a failure, being certainly a remarkable illustration of this power, which is not, however, as has been proven, a very rare one.

WOMEN AS OFFICEHOLDERS.

The Attorney General's Reasons for Ruling Them Out in New Jersey.

Attorney General Vanatta, of New Jersey, bases his decision as to the legality of the appointment of Mrs. Jones as jailoress of the Hudson county jail on reasons which might apply equally to any other woman officeholder in the State. Mrs. Jones has held the place for two years, and probably secured the appointment because in the lifetime of her husband she performed all the duties of the position. No complaint was made of the kind of service rendered. The Attorney General's opinion is only upon the legal points of the case, and he interprets the law of 1874 to say expressly that no woman shall be appointed to any office, and such an appointment he believes to be contrary to the spirit of the laws of the State. Moreover, no person can be legally appointed to an office who cannot fulfill all its duties, and there are jail duties which a woman cannot perform. A married woman could not be able to perform, at all times, all the duties of any office, even if otherwise capable; and the same opinion must apply to a single woman, because she might marry and give rise to two questions: First, as to whether she still held the office, or whether it had lapsed, or whether the husband had any authority; and second, whether in case of dereliction of duty the responsibility would lay with the husband or wife. Mrs. Jones, however, continues to hold the office, and though the subject has been repeatedly discussed by the Freeholders, that body has persistently refused to oust her.

LOST ON THE SOUND.

What is Thought About the Disappearance of Mr. Lucius W. Pond.

The disappearance of Lucius W. Pond, machine tool maker, of Worcester, Mass., has awakened interest among a large circle of acquaintance, and his warerooms at 99 Liberty street, have been overrun with anxious inquirers. All that is known of Mr. Pond's movements after his embarking for New York is supplied by a night watchman of the steamboat. He saw Mr. Pond at about 10 o'clock in the saloon, examining some papers, and there was nothing unusual in his manner. Afterward he saw Mr. Pond in his stateroom, seated on the berth. That is the last time he was seen. Mr. Pond was a cheerful, active man, an examplary professor of religion, and his friends scout the theory of suicide. Nothing indicated disturbance of any kind in the room, and it is supposed that, it being a very stormy night, he became suddenly ill, sought the rail of the boat, and fell overboard. His affairs were somewhat embarrassed, but not to such an extent as to give him any uneasiness.

PERSONAL.

TRANSCENDENTALISM lifts up its oversoul in the Hub on receiving the news that Ned O'Baldwin's last words were "Have me buried in Boston." Gone to meet Emerson.

MRS. HELEN HUNT, somewhat known as a writer for the magazines, is to be married in October to Mr. Jackson, a well-known banker of Colorado, who was formerly of Pennsylvania, and a schoolmate of Bayard Taylor.

MRS. S. H. GRIFFIN, of Niles, Mich., recently exhibited at a local fair a linen tablecloth nearly one hundred years old, which was spun and woven by her great-grandmother in 1780; a bed spread one hundred years old and a handkerchief made sixty years ago. These articles are to be sent to Philadelphia next year.

THE President, in his speech to the school children at the Omaha High School, said: "I am pleased to stand beneath the shadow of this building, which is so well calculated to prepare you for useful occupations and honorable stations in life. His Honor (the Mayor) has said that I am in favor of free speech, and therefore I want other people to do the talking."

PROF. DAVID SWING, of Chicago, gives this opinion on the use of the Bible in the public schools: "The Government has no more right to teach the Bible than it has to teach the Koran. My idea is that the Government did, in its earlier life, run according to a sort of Christian common law, but now the number of Jews, Catholics and Infidels has become so greatly increased, the Government has to place itself squarely upon its constitutional idea, that all men are religiously equal. Even if the genius of the country permitted the teaching of the Bible in the schools, I should doubt the propriety of continuing the custom, because no valuable moral results can ever come from reading a few verses hurriedly in a school house, and social strifes will be continually springing up out of the practice."

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
FRIDAY, October 8, 1875. }

The bank statements are the principal points of interest, financially speaking, just now. They bear, so far as published, a healthy look, but we cannot speak of their exact merits till all are published, and compared with former statements. It is an open secret that it has been very difficult to use money profitably, owing to the stringency of trade, and the necessary caution in loaning money. Thus the quarter has not been a good one,—yet, at first glance, the statements read well.

The Exposition parade yesterday absorbed general attention, to the exclusion of general business.

The showing of the movements of deposits, loans, and specie in the banks of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, since the beginning of September, is that the aggregate decrease of deposits in the three cities for the periods specified is $15,003,944; the aggregate decrease of loans is $4,467,867, and the aggregate decrease of specie is $6,229,547. If to the $15,003,944 decrease of deposits in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia we add about $5,000,000 decrease of deposits in Chicago in the last six weeks, we have an aggregate decrease of $20,000,000 of deposits in the four cities since the latter part of August.

It is a fact worthy of remembrance in these times of a scarcity of gold, that the annual production of gold has decreased nearly one-third as compared with nine years ago. The total production of gold in the world in 1865 has been estimated at $148,000,000. Of this amount the Pacific States of America produced $53,225,000, Australia, New South Wales, and New Zealand, together, produced $45,780,000, and Russia about $15,000,000. The annual gold product of Russia is presumed to have experienced little change; there are no definite statistics on the subject. But in the product of the Pacific States, and of the British Colonies in the South Seas, there has been a great decrease.

A Washington dispatch of October 2 to the New York Bulletin says: The Treasury Department has discontinued the purchase of silver for the present, on account of the high price. It is probable that the operation of the scheme for silver resumption will be deferred until after the meeting of Congress, in order that it may be modified by further legislation. There are grave doubts entertained here as to the feasibility of the plan, and some high authorities fear that the retiring of fractional currency would produce great annoyance to traders because of the danger of hoarding and melting of the silver given out to supply the place of the small paper change. The Secretary of the Treasury will make some important suggestions regarding the scheme in his annual report.

NEW YORK, October 7, 1875.

The customs receipts were $300,000, and specie shipments $279,000, mostly silver. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $60,-000. The clearings were $31,000,000. Bankers' bills 478½a482½. Bids for Government gold, amounting to $2,735,000, were made at 116.50½a117.03. Awards of $1,000,000 were made at 116.79½a117.03. Gold closed at 117, the two extremes of the day having been 116⅞a117⅛. The rates paid for borrowing were 1-32, 1-16 and 1-64 per diem, and 7, 8, 6 and 3 per cent. per annum. Loans were also made flat. There was $100,000 gold received from San Francisco this morning. Governments were firm. In railroad bonds, this afternoon, Central Pacifics sold at 107⅛, Union Pacific firsts at 103⅛a103⅜, Chicago & Northwestern consolidated gold bonds at 87, Milwaukee & St. Paul gold sevens at 90, and Lake Shore consolidated coupon firsts at 102. State bonds were quiet.

The stock market was firm and higher at the opening, but at the first call a reaction set in and prices declined ⅛ to 1⅜ per cent. in the general list. Missouri Pacific, however, dropped from 24½ to 21, under a pressure to sell. Union Pacific declined from 62⅛ to 61⅛, Hannibal & St. Joe from 17⅛ to 16⅞, Ohios from 16⅜ to 15⅞, Pacific Mail from 36⅛ to 35⅞, and Western Union from 76⅛ to 75⅞. Lake Shore was firm at 54⅛a54⅜, Northwestern at 38⅜a 8⅜, and St. Paul at 33⅞a34. Atlantic & Pacific preferred rose from 6⅛ to 6⅞, and later declined to 6⅛.

At the second call the market was quiet at a recovery of ⅛ to ⅞ per cent. from the lowest point. The market closed up firm, except for New Jersey Central, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and Michigan Central. New Jersey Central was especially weak, and dropped to 100½, a decline of 4⅛ per cent. for the day. Delaware, Lackawanna & Western declined from 118⅜ to 117⅛, and closed at 117⅜. Michigan Cent. fell off from 57⅛ to 56⅜. The decline in these stocks naturally attracted attention, but they seem to go up and down of late very easily, without any visible cause. Missouri Central recovered to 24, an advance of 2 per cent. from the lowest point, with the closing sales at 22⅞. A. & P. preferred declined to 5⅞, the lowest price yet made, but closed at 6 bid. Lake Shore, Northwest and St. Paul were firm on narrow fluctuations. Pacific Mail and Western Union closed at the lowest figures of the day. The Chicago & Rock Island earnings for August show an increase of $20,-000 over last year.

Benjamin F. Wheelwright, long President of the Greenwich Bank of this city, is dead.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 107,000 shares, of which 18,-000 were Pacific Mail, 18,000 Western Union, 7,000 Northwest common, 1,600 St. Paul preferred, 1,400 Erie, 1,700 St. Joe, 21,000 Lake Shore, 3,000 Ohios, 7,000 Union Pacific, 18,000 Missouri Pacific, 3,500 A. & P. preferred, 2,300 New Jersey Central, and 1,800 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, October 7, 1875. }

The leading merchandise markets present nothing specially new or important; business is fair, and while it is not all that could be desired by any means, it is about all that can reasonably be expected.

APPLES—The receipts continue liberal, but with a steady demand, there is no accumulation and prices are fully maintained; selling, in a jobbing way, at $2@4 ₩ bbl, as to quality.

BEANS—We can report some arrivals of new crop mediums, which are quoted at $2 per bushel to the trade and $2.10@2.15 in a jobbing way.

BUTTER—The market is well supplied, and dealers generally report the market dull, although there has been no quotable change in prices for some days past; prime to choice solid packed, 25@27c; ditto roll 28@30c; low grade stock dull at 15@20c. A New York paper, of Wednesday, reports that market as follows:—Exports have taken quite a start during the week, and there is an active business at the advance. We could readily use more stock than comes to hand, but sellers who are in want of more liberal supplies cannot meet State farmers' views prudently. They have offered 30c in some localities, but have returned without effecting business, as the interior market seems to have been set at 35c, in some way making it restrictive for us. We do not hear a word of confidence expressed, although the market ... ruled strong daily. Dealers say they can give no reason why we should be short of butter at a time when the demand ought to settle into a healthy business, and from day to day they are compelled to quote high figures, accompanied with the mere excuse of light supplies and enlarged consumption. The crop of State is heavy, and must sooner or later come forward, and as there will be a rush for realization before the Fall is over, the farmer will in all probability be forced to accept dealers dictation, or, at least, prices which conform to the judgment of the latter. There has been something of a struggle in pails, we give the boat price 40c, and the street quotation as 38c on selections. Western butter is in light supply; the new rates fail to bring it forward, in fact we learn that there are few holders of a surplus at the west. Canada is reported as pretty well run out of stock.

BROOMS—No. 2 common, $2,25; No. 3 hurl, $2,50; No. 4 hurl, $3; No. 5 hurl, $3,25; No. 6 hurl, $3,50; No. 8 carpet, $3,75; No. 4 carpet, $4; No. 5 carpet, $4,25; Fancy parlor, $5,00; steamboat brooms, $3,25 to $3,50; Railroad, $3,50 to $4; whisks, $1,50 to $1,75; Hearths, $1,50 to $1,75.

CHEESE—The market continues steady, with an increasing demand, and prices are still tending upward; prime Ohio Factory, 13@13½c; New York, Goshen, 13½@14c. A New York paper, of Wednesday, says:—The interior markets are not so strong this week. The advance here seems pretty well established, especially for late fine made stock. The cable has advanced, and shippers, though not buying heavily, make pretty frequent visits, which together with an active home trade, gives us a very steady market. There is some accumulation, but the fact has no effect upon the hardened condition of prices, as future supplies are expected to run light. Only a few pet factories may be quoted at 13¾ cts. The range chiefly given for the larger style of business by exporters is 12¾@13¼c for nice stock. Sharp cheese is neglected; some old Julys are quoted at 5@8c. Some good lines of Vermont are in market, for which 12¼c has been refused.

EGGS—The receipts continue light, which may be attributed to the fact that prices are better east than here, and shippers are consigning to the eastern markets in consequence—quotations may be given at 22@23c.

FLOUR—The market is fairly active and steady, but unchanged; old winter wheat, $7@7.50 for red and $7,75@8 25 for amber and white; old spring wheat, $7@7,25, the outside figure for choice Minnesotas. Rye Flour, $5,50@5,75.

GROCERIES—There is a fair degree of activity in the grocery trade, although it is not as brisk as it was last month. Coffee is quiet but firm, with every indication at this writing of a further advance in values. The stock at New York, in first hands, on Tuesday, was 60,706 bags; and at all ports, 104,358 bags including 16, 16,889 bags at Baltimore, 5,000 bags at Hampton Roads, 3,560 bags at Savannah, 6,751 bags at New Orleans, and 11,512 bags at Galveston. The amount of Rio and Santos afloat and loading for the United States, Sept. 10, was 105,598 bags; purchases for the United States to October 2, 252,000 bags. Sugars are less active and weaker. The movement in Molasses and Syrups continues light.

GRAIN—There are no new or important features in grain circles deserving of special notice; trade continues moderately active with no quotable change in prices for some days. Wheat continues to arrive pretty freely, mostly new crop, but the mills are taking about all that offers within the range of quotations; new red $1,25@1.35; ditto white $1,40@1,45; old red $1,40@1,45. The Oat market has been rather dull for some days past, in consequence of increased receipts and offerings, but prices have undergone no quotable change; mixed Ohio and Penna. 41@42c; ditto white, 44@46c. The movement in Corn continues light, as the demand is light, we repeat former quotations; 69@71c for shelled on track according to quality, and 72@73 for ear. Rye continues quiet, and prices are nominally unchanged, 85@90c. There is such a wide range in Barley, that it is difficult to quote with any degree of accuracy.

HAY—The receipts of baled have been quite liberal during the past week or more, and the market is dull, and prices drooping; prairie, on track $15@16; timothy, $18@20. Loose is still being sold from country wagons at $15@20. The great proportion of the receipts are in bad condition.

POTATOES—The market continues dull with a supply in excess of the demand, but there has been no quotable change in prices since the date of our last report; Peerless and Early Rose, on track, 35@40 cts per bushel. Sweets dull, but unchanged at $2 per bbl, the outside figure for prime Jerseys.

PROVISIONS—Bacon and Sugar Cured Meats continue very firm with indications of a still further advance. Lard continues quiet, and their is not much doing in Mess Pork. Reports come from Chicago and other points in the west, that the supply of old meats will be exhausted before the new is ready.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, October 7, 1875. }

Trade continues dull and unsettled, but it is hoped that there will soon be an improvement, and furthermore, it is not likely that the market will remain in its present condition much longer; the probability is that business will improve just as soon as the market becomes settled. Crude, as compared with yesterday, has undergone little or no change; immediate shipment quoted at $1.42½@1.45; United certificates, $1.13¼. Refined dull and nominal at 9⅛@9⅜c on Penna. cars here, and 12⅛@12⅛c delivered in Philadelphia. There has been considerable stir in Benzine within the past few days—sale of 3,000 barrels to be delivered before October 20th, at 9⅛c delivered in Philadelphia.

No additional strikes reported. The new well, struck recently in new territory, is still holding out. The seven hundred barrel strike, noted in our last, is in old territory.

The Barrel trade remains as last quoted; city make, ordinary size, $1,60; countries, $1,40@1,50.

CATTLE.

The receipts of through consignments show an increase of 32 cars, as compared with last week, while of local stock there was a decrease of 4 cars; it was expected, in view of the market having been so hard last week, that there would have been a decided falling off in the supply this week, but these expectations were not realized, and the result has been, that while last week was bad enough, this one was still worse. The number sold was larger, 3,643 cars against 3,274 cars, but prices ruled still lower, and even at the decline trade was dull; the attendance of eastern buyers was small, and those who were here bought sparingly, hence all grades of butcher cattle were very dull, many of them losing their owners' freight, commissions and other expenses, having been sold here for just about what they cost in the country. Salesmen, without a single exception, reported this as having been the worst market they have experienced this year; prices have depreciated fully fifty cents ₩ cwt within the past two weeks, and on common and medium grades the shrinkage was still greater; we heard an operator assert to-day that he saw good 1,-200 steers sold for five cents, which two weeks ago would have brought 5¾@6c.

There is a continued fair demand for good stock cattle, and this particular grade is holding its own better than butcher cattle, for the reason that there is more inquiry for them than there is for the former. Indeed, good stock steers, averaging 800 to 1,000 lbs, have not dropped more than ⅛ to ¼c during the past two weeks, whereas the shrinkage in butcher cattle has been fully 50c per cwt.

Prime to extra graded steers cannot be fairly quoted above 6⅛@6⅛, which is the lowest point touched this year; some operators appear to think that there will be a reaction soon, while others, and these we believe are in the majority, look for a still further declined in sympathy with almost everything else. Philadelphia buyers bought 60 cars here this week; New York, 15 cars; country dealers, 124 cars, and local buyers, ... cars, making 235 cars in all, or just 13 cars short of the receipts.

QUOTATIONS

Extra 1,400@1,500 steers	6,25@6,50
Prime 1,200@1,300 steers	5,00@5,50
Good 1,100@1,200 steers	4,75@5,00
Fair, 1,000@1,150 steers	4,00@4,25
Common, 900 to 1,000 steers	3,25@4,00
Bulls, Stags, and Cows	2,50@3,00
Stockers	3,00@4,50
Texas	3,00@4,00

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The run of Sheep was, as will be seen, slightly below that of last week, but the market was much worse; indeed some of the salesmen claimed that it was the worst for three months. The New York market was very dull, and lower, hence there was little or no inquiry for shipment to that point, and as the Philadelphia buyers had no competition they succeeded in forcing prices down from ⅛ to ⅛ of a cent ₩ lb, and even at the reduction, the market was dull and heavy, and at noon to-day there were still several lots remaining unsold. As might be expected, the shrinkage on common stock was the greatest, as the inquiry is nearly always light for this particular grade at this season of the year, and light common fine wool Sheep were difficult to dispose of at any price. Shippers generally have been cutting down their purchase for some weeks past, the consumption of mutton always drops down considerably at this season of the year, and the inquiry is mainly for good stock. Jersey Ewes and Lambs continue dull, but good feeding wethers are still bringing a fair price say 4⅛@4⅛ cts.

QUOTATIONS

Extra 95@100 lb	5,00@5,25
Good 85@90 lbs	4,50@4,75
Fair 75@80 lbs	3,75@4,25
Common 70@75 lbs	3,00@3,25
Lambs	4,00@5,00

HOGS.

There has been quite a reaction in the market for this class of stock, during the past week; with largely increased receipts, 90 cars in excess of last week, and a diminished demand, prices have declined 40 to 50 cts per cwt., and with the pens full to-day, scarcely any selling, and continues liberal receipts, a still further decline within the next 24 hours is most probable. There has been quiet a break in the western markets within the past week and the general outlook at the present writing warrants the prediction that prices are much more likely to decline than advance. In referring to the packing season, a Chicago paper says: "Then it seems to be accepted as a fact that the next packing season will open and close a month latter than usual, as farmers will naturally desire to use an immense corn crop for fattening, and the number of hogs is small, the official returns of six Western States giving a falling off of something like 1,290,000 head. The tendency of this is to cause a continuous strengthening in the nearer deliveries, under the prospect of a short supply in the early winter, while the late options are firm, though not relatively so strong. There is not much disposition to take stock in the cry of a "short hog crop," because the same cry has been raised in former years, and was not justified by the event. But a short present stock of product, with a good demand for what is left, are well recognized facts; and a late commencement of the packing-season is generally regarded as a certainty."

OBITUARY.

Alexander Watson well-known in stock circles, who has been in the commission business here for several years, died at his residence this morning after a short illness. Deceased was at one time of the firm of Smith & Watson, then Watson & Briggs, and latterly Watson & Sons.

THE WOOL TRADE.

New York.

The market is quiet, as is generally the case at the opening of the week, and prices ruled about steady for most grades. Fleeces meet with a good inquiry, especially Combing and Delaine descriptions, and these command full rates. Pulled Wools are in fair request at unchanged prices. For California Wools there is a fair ... Texas grades are ... quiet. Foreign W... fine descriptions ... steady. Carpet W... prices. In the Woolen ... business doing at unchanged rates ... gate proves to be larger than many anticipated, the low prices current for most goods attract very general attention. The sales embrace 25,000 lb Spring Clip California, 25c; 20,000 lb Fall do, 18½c; 12,000 lb Nevada, on private terms; 8,000 lb Combing Fleeces, 67c; 5,000 lb Michigan X do, 44c; 12 bales Spring California on private terms; 25,000 lb X Ohio Fleeces at 46c; 10,000 lb XX do, at 47c; 20,000 lb XXX and above do at 48c; 75 bales Fall California on private terms; 5,000 lb unmerchantable fleece on private terms; 80 bags Super Extra on private terms; 8,000 lb Western Texas on private terms; 5,000 lb Spring California at 24@25c; 5,000 lb X Ohio at 46c; 5,000 lb medium Texas on private terms.

PHILADELPHIA.

The tone of the market is stronger, and the impression prevails that prices have touched bottom. The demand for medium grades of fleece and combing continues good at full prices. Of unwashed the stock is greatly reduced. Coarse wools are attracting some attention and command top figures. Fine wools are held with confidence; sales of 650,000 lbs at the following prices:—Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia Fleeces—XX and above, 45@47c; X, 45@47c; ½ blood, 50@51; ⅛-blood, 45a48. Combing —fine unwashed, 30@31; medium unwashed, 36@37; washed fleece, 62@65; unwashed fleece, 40@43 cts. New York, Michigan and Wisconsin—XX and above, 44@45; X, 44@45; ½-blood, 46@50; ⅛-blood 46@47c. Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota—Full blood fleece, 44@45; ½-blood, 44@45; ⅛-blood 45@48c; ⅛-blood, 45@46; common fleeces, 40@41.

L. A. WELSH,
Sergeant Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was two feet, and stationary. Cloudy and cool. Heavy rain on Wednesday night.

THE Rose Miller and the W. S. Holt arrived in Memphis on Wednesday.

THE Grand Lake and the Smoky City passed Vicksburg on Wednesday, on their way to New Orleans.

THE towboat Fearless, with a tow for this city, left Cincinnati on Wednesday, to come up as far as the water would allow her.

THE Ed. Poe arrived from Wheeling, with a tow of oil barrels, and the C. W. Hornbrook was to have left Wheeling for this port yesterday.

A CAIRO dispatch of Tuesday, says: The Thompson Dean dropped down this evening from Mound City, and leaves Cairo on Saturday evening, and Memphis on Wednesday evening, for New Orleans. The new steamer, W. S. Holt, passed down last night. Captain Barry, of the Alf. Stevens, is thought to be out of danger. He has been sick about two weeks.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch under date of Tuesday, says: The Commonwealth has deferred her departure till to-morrow. All of the packets coming in and go out full of people. The Mary Belle is rapidly nearing completion, and comes to the landing next week to receive her outfit. She clears for the south on Saturday week. Captain Peter Conrad leaves for Metropolis, to-morrow, with the Ben Accorp, to bring up the General Anderson's new hull, just completed there by Fryme Emerson.

THE Bismarck Tribune, 29th September, says: The Benton passed up, Monday, taking all Fort Benton freights.... The Far West is expected to-day. She will leave to-morrow for Carroll, and will clean up all Montana freights.... The Carroll is expected from below to-day.... The Key West returned this morning, having transferred her load for Carroll to the Josephine, 60 miles above Buford. Reports river very low. She leaves for Yankton to-morrow.

A ST. LOUIS paper, referring to the funeral of the late Captain S. C. Baker, says:—The funeral of Captain S. C. Baker took place from the family residence, Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended. Among those present were noticed Capt. John F. Baker, William Fitzgerald, Colonel W. A. Shomburg, Captain T. L. Davidson, John H. Bowen, Thomas K. Voorhees, Ed. Spencer, James McEntire, John Sloan, Major Dunlevy, Samuel Entriken, John Shethair, E. R. Powell, James A. Yore, Charles Scudder, Lloyd T. Belt, John W. Carroll, John Greenough, W. H. Crapster, Harry Hall, Duncan S. Carter, N. Springer, Henry Lowrey and others. At the conclusion of the services the friends of Captain Baker were permitted to view his remains for the last time, and as they passed by the coffin and caught a glance of his familiar features there were few dry eyes. The scene presented by the four small children who wept aloud and refused to be comforted was truly heart-rending. The members of the Keystone Lodge of Masons attended the funeral in a body. The pall-bearers were Captain Harry Bennett, M. H. Crapster, Lloyd T. Belt, George Walton, N. Springer, David R. Powell, J. H. Hall and J. M. Horrocks. The remains were conveyed to Bellefontaine cemetery for interment.

LATEST NEWS.

THE MISSISSIPPI WAR.

A "White Line" Account of the Disturbances at Friar's Point.

Dispatch from Senator Alcorn to Attorney General Pierrepont.

MEMPHIS, October 7.—The Appeal's Friar's Point special of this morning says General Chalmers continued the pursuit of the negroes under General Pease, colored, on Tuesday evening, to Schufordsville. Frank Scott, white, was ambushed and fatally wounded by negroes on Tuesday.

A Charge on the Negroes.

A squad of white cavalry, under command of Capt. Burke, subsequently charged the negroes, who were in ambush, killing three and wounding one of the negroes, who is doubtless dead, and captured Nelse Leavitt, Benjamin Jones, and Alex. Nims, who are now in jail. Bill Henry and Jordon Thorpe were also captured near the Tunica county line, and put in jail here.

Chalmers' command of two hundred and fifty cavalry has not yet returned. Forty or fifty of his command remained last night at Clarksdale to watch the negroes in that section. As several places were threatened, Chalmers, with the remainder, proceeded last night to Jonestown, fourteen miles northeast of this place, where negroes under General Bill Pease were reported in force, about 500 strong.

Information was received here this morning that Chalmers' pickets were within sight of their outposts, but no fight had occurred when the courier left last evening. Negroes were also reported in force at Major Alcorn's place, twelve miles from here.

Report of Fighting.

Fighting is reported going on there, but the report is not confirmed. There are about one hundred armed citizens there, who picket the town, and will remain under arms until the disturbance is ended and security to life and property restored.

White People in a Quandary.

The white people barely know what to do. Their homes in the country are unprotected, should the negroes offer violence. There is a fearful state of affairs in this county. The white men are determined to disperse all mobs, but are prudent and act on the defensive. While the disturbance was caused by Sheriff Brown and other Republicans, the whites, Democrats and Republicans, are a unit in opposing the negroes. A cavalry command leaves here this morning for Jonestown.

Later.

The Appeal's Friar's Point special to-night stated that Chalmers was driving Pease's force from Jonestown, and had him nearly surrounded, and that reports had been received of the negroes trying to organize forces in other parts of the country, but there had been no further fighting. Chalmers is determined to capture Pease if possible. This will end the disturbance. But even this will not allay the excitement, as the whites, irrespective of politics, fear outbreaks in other sections of the country, and will remain under arms.

Sheriff Brown is still at Helena, and denies that he attempted to incite riot, but on reaching Helena telegraphed to Governor Ames that he could and would quiet the disturbance.

Dispatch to the Attorney General.

Senator Alcorn to-day telegraphed to Attorney General Pierrepont as follows:

"Having read several incorrect and sensational dispatches touching the recent race troubles at Friar's Point, I beg to assure you that there need be no alarm for the peace of this county. Several hundred armed negroes, who had been incited by an ill-tempered sheriff, marched on our town, and were readily repulsed by the whites under the lead of the most prudent citizens, who have been following up the armed bands of negroes and dispersing them with as little violence as possible, and urging them to go home. The mob has been dispersed, and I think will remain quiet. There is no question of politics in this excitement. The whites are to a man for defence. Those of the negroes who have been mislead are fast being reconciled. A community of planters may be relied on for the kind treatment of the laborer. The whites have made no demonstration of hostility to the negroes of this county, but are anxious to cultivate the most friendly relations. My name has been most ridiculously associated in the matter. I trust you will not give credence to the share given me in this affair by telegraph.

"Respectfully,
"J. L. ALCORN, U. S. Senator."

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, October 7, 1875.

The Fire Engineers' Convention

met again to-day, Chief Hendricks presiding. The Bennett medal, presented for acts of bravery and heroism performed at fires, was given to A. M. Mitchell, foreman of Hook and Ladder No. 14, for saving a man's life at the risk of his own during a fire at No. 10 Pearl street, a short time ago.

Mr. Hope was called on for an address, to which he responded, and during his remarks declared that the greater number of fires that occurred in that city, the greater the benefits accruing to insurance companies. Fires could not take place too frequently to prevent insurance companies building up their premiums, but the latter were interested to some extent that the fire should not be too large in extent.

Henry Clews & Co.'s Affairs.

The examination of Benjamin H. Cheever, as a creditor of Henry Clews & Co., was continued yesterday before Register in Bankruptcy Ketchum.

A New Trial.

General Wm. G. Manks, ex-Custom House Inspector, who was convicted in the United States Court in June last, under section 5,431 of the revised statutes of the United States, of having in his possession within his cell $1,500 in counterfeit money, was granted a new trial yesterday in the same Court.

THE STATE TREASURY.

Investigation by a Legislative Committee—Missing Vouchers.

HARRISBURG, PA., October 7.—At the session of the State Treasury Investigating Committee this morning, Mr. Geist, editor of the Lancaster Express, testified that he had information showing that State Treasurer Mackey had drawn four per cent. interest on an average deposit of $20,000 in the banking firm of Stehman, Clarkson & Co., of Lancaster, in 1869. Geist declines to give the name of his informant, unless compelled by law. No other witnesses were examined.

Geo. G. Waddel, Chief Clerk of the Auditor General's Department, testified that vouchers for disbursements from June, 1873, to June, 1874, by S. H. Walters, late Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, amounting to $22,000, were not in the office when Auditor General Temple took possession, and cannot be discovered after a thorough search. The absence of the vouchers makes it impossible to tell how the money was applied.

FOREIGN NEWS.

AFRICA.

A War in Liberia.

LONDON, October 7.—The Times has the following: War has commenced at Cape Palmes between Liberia and the aborigines under the command of several educated natives. There was some fighting on the 17th of September, in which fifty were killed and wounded. The Liberian Government has dispatched troops from Monrovia to the scene of action, and a great battle is daily expected.

GERMANY.

The Bishop of Breslau.

BERLIN, October 7.—The Ecclesiastical Court has deposed the Bishop of Breslau.

THE SINEY-PARKS TRIAL.

Verdict of the Jury—Siney Acquitted—Parks Convicted of Riot and Conspiracy, and Sentenced to Hard Labor for One Year and Fined One Dollar and Costs.

CLEARFIELD, PA., October 7.—The jury in the Siney-Parks trial to-day rendered a verdict acquitting Siney, but convicting Parks of riot and conspiracy. Parks was sentenced to hard labor for one year, and fined one dollar and costs. The latter is estimated at fifteen hundred dollars.

THE WEATHER.

OFFICE OF THE OBSERVER,
UNITED STATES SIGNAL SERVICE,
PITTSBURGH, PA., Oct. 8, 1875—1 A. M.

Probabilities for To-day.

For the Middle and Eastern States, higher pressure, cooler, clear or partly cloudy weather, with northwesterly wind, and possibly frosts in and north of Pennsylvania.

President Grant's Administration Endorsed.

ST. LOUIS, October 7.—The Republican State Central Committee met here yesterday, ten of the thirteen Congressional Districts of the State being represented. The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the efforts of the Administration to purify the public service by a vigorous prosecution of all officials and other persons charged with the commission of fraud in any and all the departments of the Government, deserve the heartiest endorsement of the Republican party throughout the country, and are emphatically endorsed by this committee.

There was some discussion of the subject of the new State Constitution to be submitted to the people at the next election, but no definite action was taken.

Incendiarism in the Coal Regions.

POTTSVILLE, October 7.—Last night an attempt was made to destroy the large West Brookside breaker owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. The blacksmith shop, fanhouse, carpenter shop and oil house connected with the breaker were burned down, but the employes succeeded in saving the breaker. West Brookside is in the southern portion of the region, and has hitherto been quiet and free from violence or incendiarism.

HOME NEWS.

Proposed Torch-light Parade.

At a meeting of the captains of the Allegheny marching clubs last evening, it was decided to have a grand torch-light procession. The Pittsburgh clubs will be invited. A meeting will be held at the Y. M. R. Club rooms to-night, to perfect arrangements.

Prayer Meeting.

A joint prayer meeting between the Women's Christian Associations of England will be held this morning (Oct. 8th) at half past ten o'clock, at the Second Presbyterian church, Penn avenue, (Rev. Dr. Howard's.) The special subject for prayer will be "The Outpouring of God's Spirit Upon Women's Christian Associations and the Forthcoming Inter-National Conference," to be held in this city October 12, 1875. Rev. Dr. Milligan will conduct the meeting. All Christians interested are earnestly invited to be present.

$40,000.

An item of great interest displayed on Smithfield street during the passing of the procession yesterday, was a fire and burglar proof safe of Hall's patent, that passed through the fire at Meyersdale, Pa., and which preserved $40,000 in currency and all the books and papers of the First National Bank. The exhibition of bank notes taken from this safe after the fire, and now in the show window of Hall's Safe and Lock Co., exhibit no signs whatever of the fiery ordeal through which they passed, but look as fresh as when they left the Treasury Department at Washington.

LOCAL POLITICS.

All Republicans of the Twelfth ward are requested to meet at the O'Hara school house this (Friday) evening, October 8, 1875, for the purpose of organizing a Hartranft club for the campaign.

The Hartranft club of the Third ward, Allegheny, having received their new uniforms, indulged in a street parade last night.

The Third ward, Allegheny, Marching Club will meet in the North avenue school house this evening.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The Vokes family performed "Fun in a Fog" last evening, and the same piece will be repeated to-night.

Fifth Avenue Theater.

"Life's Perils" continues to attract large and enthusiastic audiences.

Trimble's Varieties.

The entertainments nightly furnished by Manager Aims are excellent.

FATAL KICK.

A Little Boy Kicked by a Mule at the Exposition.

Yesterday afternoon a little boy named Bartly Morrison, was holding a mule in front of Power Hall, when some boy threw a stone at the animal, which struck it and caused it to kick. One of its hoofs struck young Morrison on the side of the head, knocking him down and fracturing his skull very badly. He was carried into a house near by and Dr. Sutton summoned, and after his injury had been attended to he was removed to his home on Magnolia street, near Preble avenue, Sixth ward, where he soon after died. The Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

AN END OF IT.

The Dispute Concerning the Two Orphans Settled by the Court.

Yesterday the argument in the matter of the "Two Orphans," which has been before Judge Ewing, was concluded. In the afternoon Judge Ewing gave a verbal opinion. He stated that with the evidence before him, the equities of the case were with the complainants. It was admitted that they had purchased and paid for the right of producing the play in this country. They had purchased the right from the original authors. If they were not entitled to the exclusive right here, it was on a question of law and not one of equity. The Judge was of the opinion that there was scarcely a probability of the defendants being able to make out their right, and the exclusive right to produce the play in this country was with the complainants. He felt more confident in the correctness of his conclusions, from the fact that the United States Courts in Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana had granted injunctions against the defendants, and in favor of the plaintiffs. The question before them may have been merely one of copyright, or the right of Jackson only to his own translation, but there were two cases, one in New York and one in Philadelphia, which he thought had a direct bearing on the question before this Court.

The Judge stated that he had the complete record of the case of Palmer vs. Thorne, in the Superior Court of New York. He was satisfied that that Court could not have reached the conclusion it did without finding that the plaintiffs had the exclusive proprietary right in the play. The case was decided in June last. The Common Pleas Court No. 2 of Philadelphia in the case of Palmer vs. Wood, recently decided affirmatively the same point.

Counsel, by direction of Court, prepared an injunction order, the complainants giving bond in the sum of $10,000, with William Coleman and Thomas H. Carnegie as sureties.

BREVITIES.

....The pickpockets were busy yesterday, and several parties, principally ladies, lost their purses.

....The authorities should ascertain what the matter is with the Central Police Station. The smell there is horribly disgusting. It needs a deodorizer badly.

....At an early hour yesterday morning, burglars were discovered in the dwelling house of Mrs. Well, on the corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets, South Side, and before time was allowed to capture the thieves they made good their escape.

....Yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, policeman James Grierson was put on trial on a charge of manslaughter, in causing the death of Thomas Carr, at East Liberty, last May. The facts developed did not materially differ from those brought out at the inquest. The trial will be continued to-day.

....James Craft, postmaster at Break Neck, in Butler county, was arrested in this city yesterday morning on a charge of having stolen a registered letter containing $45. He had a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Gamble and in default of $2,000 bail was committed for trial at the ensuing term of Court.

....The Washington Examiner says it is expected that President Grant and Mrs. Grant will arrive here, on their return from the West, on Monday next, and remain until the 16th inst. They will be the guests of their relative, W. W. Smith, and will probably be accompanied by other members of the Presidential household.

....At a meeting held on the 5th inst, the Secretary of the Brownsville Avenue Commission was directed to make a requisition on Controller Snodgrass for $30,000 worth of bonds, in addition to the $20,000 issued a few days since. The formal application was received by Controller Snodgrass yesterday morning. It is probable, in view of the decision recently made, that that the bonds will be issued.

....Next week there will begin a series of meetings, at Dr. Howard's Church, of considerable interest. It is the annual International Conference of the Woman's Christian Association of the United States. The opening exercises take place on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday the exercises will be "for ladies only," and a number of fair reporters are selected from the ranks of the W. C. A. No regular reporter will be admitted, but a special reporter from among the ladies will be delegated to furnish the proceedings to the newspapers.

....The Gilmore Mission Society, one of the branches of the "Womens Christian Association," held their annual meeting October 6th, 1875 in the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. The following officers were elected. Mrs. H. C. Dickinson, President; Mrs. H. T. Dillon, Vice President; Mrs. D. D. Clapp, Secretary; Mrs. W. P. Logan Treasurer. Managers: Mrs. Rodman Wister, Mrs. L. B. Coffey, Mrs. L. B. Van Kirk, Mrs. J. M. Smith, Miss C. La Teurrette, Miss Virginia Miller, Miss Lizzie Butter, Miss Lizzie Caldwell, Miss Maggie Stewart, Miss Josie Eaton, Miss Lydia Hays, Miss Maud Shinn.

PERSONAL.

Judge Ewing yesterday granted an injunction restraining the McKee Rankin troupe from playing the Jackson version of the "Two Orphans."

THE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

What is Being Done—Money Well Spent.

The money being spent by exhibitors at the Industrial Exposition, as well as those who are preparing to do some trade for the next few weeks, in having large streamers painted by Mr. John T. Gray, the painter, No. 54 Ninth street, is money well spent. Leave your orders to-day, so as to be in time.

Attention, Exhibitors!

Parties contemplating having stalls at th Industrial Exposition should have their firm's name and place of business painted in large letters over their booths. Mr. John T. Gray has employed two of the best sign painters in the city, who will give this special duty their entire attention for the next few days.

board in the kitchen will be filled by the queensware man, and, in short, nothing of the least importance will be omitted. A number of our merchants have combined for this purpose, and everything they furnish will be of the finest and costliest quality.

On the Home Stretch.

We will now pass along the Southern gallery and complete our tour. At the west end of it is a remarkably fine exhibition of wax flowers and landscape hair work. Then there is an enticing display of the productions of the photographer, millinery goods, lithographic pictures, stencil goods, chromos, picture frames, mirrors, glass ware, upholstery, fine paper boxes, furniture and light hardware. We are now at the dining room, from whence we started around the galleries, and our tour of the whole building is complete. In a day or two, when the Executive Committee announces that everything is in readiness, there will be far more to see than there was yesterday.

The large yard which is being fenced in around the building is to be used for cattle, horses, heavy wagons, &c., and for practical tests of fire extinguishers.

Its Dimensions.

The main building is 600 feet in length by 150 in width. The central nave is 600 feet long, 65 feet wide and 70 feet in height. The side aisles are 20 feet wide, and extend the entire length of the building. The galleries are each 40 feet in width and 600 feet long, with a balcony extending entirely around the central nave, affording a delightful view of the beautiful fountains and the extensive floral display beneath. There are eight grand entrances surmounted by tall and well designed towers, in each of which there is a beautiful circular glass window sixteen feet in diameter. Broad, massive stairways lead from the main floor to the galleries, affording easy facilities for reaching all parts of the building. Over each grand entrance there is a balcony, from which the vast concourse of people coming in and going out can be seen. There are fourteen immense reflectors, each reflecting the light of seventy burners, producing a light almost rivaling that of the sun itself for brilliancy. Besides these there are over two thousand bracket burners, all of which taken together will illuminate the vast interior most brilliantly.

During the day sunlight will be admitted by hundreds of windows and immense skylights. As the object in placing things on exhibition was to have them seen, the architect made ample provision for abundant light.

Outside of all is Power Hall—devoted to the machinery.

General Notes.

Notwithstanding the announcement that the Exposition would not be open to the public—which announcement had been made in all the newspapers—thousands of people during the day flocked to the grounds and contented themselves at least in taking an outside view of the mammoth structure.

It is now certain that the building can be thrown open to visitors on Saturday morning. The exhibitors put through an immense amount of work yesterday and last evening, and by the close of to-day all will be arranged. At least those exhibitors who are not fixed up by to-night cannot hold the space assiged them. There are enough applicants outside to take up all forfeited space, and there will beno further delay allowed.

Last evening Chief Engineer Evans stationed a steam fire engine on South avenue. It is proposed to keep steam up and the engine all ready for instant service day and night until Power Hall is completed, and the engines there get into service.

Some of the exhibitors were engaged nearly all night.

THE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

What is Being Done—Money Well Spent.

The money being spent by exhibitors at the Industrial Exposition, as well as those who are preparing to do some trade for the next few weeks, in having large streamers painted by Mr. John T. Gray, the painter, No. 54 Ninth street, is money well spent. Leave your orders to-day, so as to be in time.

Attention! Exhibitors at the Industrial Exposition.

If you are in want of a first class Carpenter, who will build you a booth in less time than you spend in hunting up some carpenters, call on Samuel Wood, corner of Penn and Ninth streets. Mr. Wood is now finishing three of the handsomest booths in the Exposition. Hand in your orders early, so as to not be too late.

An Unanswerable Argument.

The strongest argument which can be urged against the advisability of administering such corrosive and nerve-destroying poisons as arsenic and quinine for intermittent and remittent fevers, is the vastly superior success in the prevention and cure of such diseases of a medicine which is the very antipode of the above named drugs, both in respect of its composition and the results wrought by it. Such a medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable preparation, which not only eradicates with wonderful promptitude every trade of fever and ague, and kindred types of malarious disease from the system, but is a certain preventive of all maladies begotten of miasma-tainted air and water. These results mineral anti-febrile remedies do not effect with certainty, and their continued use entails consequences highly pernicious to the system. The Bitters on the contrary, not only afford speedy relief, but establish health on a permanent basis.

Second Annual Report of Gilmore Mission and Industrial School.

The school year commencing November 11, 1874, organized with eighty-five scholars and eleven teachers, Mrs. A. Young as Superintendent.

The illness of Mrs. Y. soon after commencement of school, preventing her from taking charge, increased the duties and caused much anxiety to the managers, as her competency and faithfulness were needed to carry out our project. But the school being regularly organized, the managers, by sustained action, spared neither time or effort to make it attractive as well as beneficial.

The field is very broad, the building being located in a district surrounded by the poor—last winter's severity added greatly to the usual demands, and made it necessary to clothe some of the children as soon as they entered school.

The average number of scholars for the five months was 120; of teachers, 15.

During the winter over three hundred garments were made and distributed. The aim being, while teaching them to sew, to provide them with garments that will add to their comfort.

The school closed April 3d with a treat for the children. The singing being ably conducted made a very attractive feature of the entertainment. Rev. O. P. Emerson made an appropriate address. Richly illuminated cards were given by the President to those reciting the commandments perfectly, and with bags filled with cakes and oranges, as happy reminders of our interest in them, the children bid us good bye for another six months.

To those teachers who so faithfully aided us we would say, may not the promise "Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days," to join us again, to work with renewed strength for the Master.

The Bible reading, and mother's meetings, another branch of our work, was, owing to the illness of the Superintendent, but partially carried out.

During the winter two hundred and twenty-six visits were made. The prayer meetings, held in different houses, were well attended, and from the women's own words, "that they had been a great blessing," we have much to encourage us.

The fathers and sons sometimes came to listen. Mothers and fathers, who had long neglected all church privileges, were induced to go regularly; and one young man wept over past sins, and determined to lead a new life.

With these and many other assurances we have of the good work done, let us take courage, remembering that "in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

D. D. CLAPP, Secretary.

AN ITEM OF INTEREST TO ALL.

Closed for Repairs.

The many friends of Mr. Tobias, No. 13 Sixth street, will be sorry to learn that he will be obliged to close his establishment on Saturday next for the purpose of repairing as far as possible the damage done by the late fire. His damaged stock, consisting of fine ready made clothing, piece goods of English, French and German suitings, still finds ready sale, and his store is constantly thronged with people whose faces betray their delight at the good bargains they are making. We are sorry to learn that some neighbors of Mr. Tobias in the same line of business are making capital of his misfortune by saying theirs was the place burned out, claiming to be Big 13, and in other ways misleading inquirers for Mr. Tobias' store. We would say to the public look for the Big No. 13, and you will be well received and courteously treated. Mr. Tobias will open on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock and continue sale until 12.
